Staff is efficient Portell

(28th of a series on politics in Madison County)
One of the most unusual of all political occurrences, a referendum in effect related to the performance of one elected official, is set to take place in Granite City Tuesday, Oct. 4. Voters will decide whether to retain as an elective office the position of superintendent of streets.

While the issue affects the governmental structure and will apply to future officials as well as the present official, it also is a sort of popularity contest and performance evaluation of Supt. Lionel Portell. Most people appear to believe the outcome will be favorable to him.

Portell is pleased by the public's response and thinks a widespread wish to "not take an office away from the voters" is valid.

He adds that there might have been less controversy and a more objective decision by voters on the municipal organization chart if there had been less City Council haste this spring in its effort to make the job appointive in 1979. To reverse aldermen's action, petitions were circulated to obtain the special election.

Supt. Portell concedes that divided authority—operating decisions by the superintendent and budgeting by aldermen—can be troublesome but pledges to cooperate with committees. He believes the street department, plagued with many street-related duties, has been highly efficient.

In his view, the department has functioned effectively in paying attention to priorities, and not being stampeded by other officials to do specific tasks.

In adhering to priorities, it has responded quickly to duties of an emergency nature while performing other tasks where work crews can be assigned several similar missions within a particular geographic area, he relates.

Supt. Portell feels he has earned public backing by directing a large and varied staff in the use of diverse equipment and techniques. Street and sewer conditions have been a challenge but are being brought to an improved status, he feels.

The staff of 45 regular and part-time street and sewer maintenance employees is all of equal rank except for two foremen. No manpower federal workers are being utilized within the department.

Charge closing law violation

Albert Baldwin, 44, of Wood River, was arrested at 2:13 a.m. Sunday, while working as a bartender at Charlie's Restaurant, 3210 Nameoki Road, for violation of tavern closing hours.

Officers reported they saw 11 people sitting at the bar and saw Baldwin driving change to a man with a full glass of beer in front of him at the time of the arrest. No customers were arrested or charged. Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler said this morning that he and City Attorney Lance Callis were on the balcony eating and had not been served drinks.

The mayor said neither he nor Callis could see the bar or lounge from where they were seated and did not know if anyone was being served after hours.

On and off the record Moped licensing will begin

Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon announced today that the Motor Vehicle Services Department of his office is prepared to issue certificates of titles and license registrations for mopeds.

Mopeds are an abbreviated form of motorcycles, restricted to a maximum of 50 cubic centimeters, producing a top speed of 30 miles per hour on level ground and 2.0 brake horsepower or less.

"According to the new statute, everyone with a valid Illinois drivers license will be eligible to seek to operate a moped," Dixon said. "This would include 16-year-olds with qualified drivers education and 18-year-olds and up for other drivers."

Persons examined and qualified on a pedalcycle will receive a class "L" license restricted to operation of pedalcycle only.

Mopeds will be licensed on a calendar year registration. License fee will be $12 a year and $3 for certificate of title.

Under the Illinois Vehicle Code, a half-year registration fee of $6 will be charged for all mopeds purchased on or after June 15.

"Our current regitile forms for mopeds under 150 cubic centimeters will be used for pedalcycle applicants," Dixon explained.

"Standard motorcycle license plates will be issued with a prefix from A through F so we can process the applications properly."

Committees chart goals

Strong emphasis was placed at Thursday night's Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce 1977 "accountability meeting" on maintaining a favorable business climate, aiding government officials in achieving improvement projects and efficiency and seeking regional transportation facilities and job growth.

A foreign trade zone newly approved for the Tri-City Regional Port District area can be a catalyst for employment and economic gains helping people of all walks of life, it was predicted.

About 150 Chamber members and spouses gathered at the Firemen's Hall in Madison for a dinner and to hear committee chairmen outline accomplishments and objectives. Chamber President Roger Higgins praised committee efforts in seeking community and business development. He said plans for 1977-78 call for concentration on relatively few but highly significant goals.

An overhead projector was used to present committee projects. John N. Belkoff welcomed the gathering and Leo H. Konzen was moderator. Committee chairmen reporting included Carl

2nd data fall

Antoine Hatcher, 28, of 1412 St. Louis Ave., East St. Louis, a hodiecarrier employed at Granite City Steel, died shortly after 10 p.m. Thursday of injuries sustained when he fell while working in the hot strip furnace in the Hot Strip Department at the local plant.

Mr. Hatcher had been working in the slab furnaces in the Hot Strip Department and apparently lost his balance while crossing over to the run out table. He fell 20 feet into a pit under the table, where the hot steel is rolled after coming out of the furnace.

William Sternberg, Madison County deputy coroner pronounced Mr. Hatcher dead at the scene at 10:30 p.m.

A plant spokesman said the worker had been told by supervisor earlier in the day to use a catwalk to cross the area, rather than walking across the runout table.

Mr. Hatcher fell between two rolls on a mechanism on which steel slabs emerge from the slab furnace and are carried along on rollers.

When he fell through the opening, he landed on a flume which carried him for a distance, it was learned.

A spokesman said an investigation is being conducted — including whether training is adequate — on behalf of the United Steelworkers. Mr. Hatcher was a member of Laborers Local 597.

Mr. Hatcher was a lifelong resident of East St. Louis. He had been employed at the local

Push for TV channel 18 here

A capital funding request totaling $3,104,000 and an operating budget of $283,100 for Southwestern Illinois Public Television, Inc. for the 1978-79 fiscal year have been recommended by the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees for favorable action by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

In action here Thursday, the SIU trustees adopted a resolution in support of the SIPT requests for funding and implementation of educational television in the Southwestern Illinois region in conjunction with SIU Edwardsville, utilizing Channel 18.

University officers explained that the state funding requested is necessary to qualify for the combined monies would be used for land acquisition, tower, transmitter and auxiliary buildings construction, and start-up costs. If funding is obtained as projected, Channel 18 could be operational by December 1980.

John Regnell, executive director of SIPT and director of the SIUE Broadcasting Service, said SIUE now has a complete broadcast standard color television studio, equipped with the "most modern technical equipment in the area."

With relatively minor additions, it can be utilized for Channel 18 "on the air" operation, he said; at present, this equipment is utilized six to eight hours daily for student instruction as part of the university's mass communications curriculum.

SIPT is a consortium of three groups: SIUE, Area V public schools and the Regional Council on Interinstitutional Cooperation, in addition to

Mexican festival

By MICK STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

The 115th anniversary of Mexico's independence will be celebrated at the second annual outdoor "Jamaica" (festival) at 1801 Spruce St., Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 17 and 18.

Varied ethnic foods will be served, and ethnic dancers will perform during the two-day event.

On Saturday the festivities will begin at 2 p.m. and end at midnight. A rock and roll band known as "Playmates" will perform from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday, followed by Mexican Honorary Commission artistic dancers performing from 6 p.m. until 7 p.m. and "Remedios" playing dance music, including polkas.

The booths, games and rides will open at 2 p.m. Sunday, and from 7 p.m. until 11 p.m. Sunday a Mexican band, "Marion y Su Combo," will play.

During the two days there will be pony rides and fire engine rides for children, with several game booths, a duck pond, snow cones, beer and soda.

"The accent will be on family fun, with something for everyone," according to Ruby Yarras.

Ethnic groups other than Mexican also have been invited to participate in the event.

Enrique E. "Hank" Lopez is chairman of the festival and John R. Valencia is president of the Mexican Honorary Commission, which is celebrating its 16th anniversary.

"The independence of Mexico from Spain came about when Spanish power began to weaken in Europe. The Mexican Revolution of 1810-1821 was an effort to give justice and liberty to the people, but this did not come immediately," Valencia said.

"In 1810, a little-known priest, Miguel Hidalgo, called on his followers to rise against their rulers. The fight for freedom was to last for many years."

"Sept. 16 is celebrated as Mexico's Independence Day."

"On each anniversary, the president of the republic rings a bell in Mexico City and repeats the 'Grito de Dolores,' the cry of Father Hidalgo—'Long live our Most Holy Mother of Guadalupe! Long live America! Death to bad government!'"

Independence day events in Mexico and elsewhere typically are colorful, often including parades, piñatas, fireworks, music and dancing.

Pension approved

Assistant Granite City Fire Chief Charles Hileman Sr., 50, retired from his post with the fire department at 9 a.m. Friday, 38 hours after being indicted by a Madison County grand jury on four felony counts of theft.

The city pension board convened immediately and granted him a pension totaling 64 per cent of his regular salary.

Hileman is accused of obtaining possession of items during several occasions where he allegedly met a Tennessee man in Mitchell motel rooms and obtained guns, coins and church items. The items allegedly were stolen.

Hileman appeared in the Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville Thursday, pleaded innocent to the charges and was released on his own recognizance by Associate Judge John Day.

The grand jury set his bond at a total of $30,000, but he did not have to post cash or property bond under Judge Day's order.

Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Brown commented Friday, "As far as we are concerned, we are ready for trial." He said no additional grand jury consideration of the case is anticipated.

Brown said that a person, if convicted, could be sentenced to three years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each of two indictments which allege possession of stolen firearms, and four years in prison and a $10,000 fine on a two-count indictment alleging possession of stolen items with a value exceeding $150.

He explained that the theft over $150 charge is a Class three felony, which is considered more serious than the Class four felony allegation of theft involving a firearm.

Illinois law classes possession of stolen property under the general charge of theft.

One indictment alleges that on or about Jan. 8, Hileman obtained control over three shotguns and a rifle stolen from Harold Baker of Tennessee.

The two-count indictment alleges that on or about June 22, he obtained control over a cross, collection plates and a candelabra taken from a church in McKenzie, Tenn., and on the same date obtained control of a coin collection and a pistol and

Concern over growing steel dependence on other nations

(Seventh of a series)
Increased steel import penetration from Japan and Europe can no longer be justified by a desire to strengthen America's trading partners. U.S. policies have helped create strong rivals, who now must share the responsibility for stable economic progress in the world.

Further penetration of the U.S. market would lead inexorably to greater reliance on foreign sources for a critical industrial material.

Public officials ought to examine why the trend is occurring, the alternatives, and what sort of treatment steel customers can expect from suppliers on whom the U.S. is becoming increasingly dependent.

The validity of this issue is demonstrated graphically by the events of the 1973-1974 period.

For the first time in history other than during a war, the domestic steel industry was unable to supply the United States' total steel requirement.

As a result, U.S. customers were forced to rely on imports and, because steel was scarce worldwide, import prices rose to an unprecedented premium—often averaging $60 per ton or more over the price of comparable domestic products.

Further, suppliers of imported steel reportedly took advantage of the shortage to secure forward commitments from U.S. customers, so that many were locked in to high-priced deliveries even after the actual shortage had ended.

For obvious reasons, it is difficult to substantiate the magnitude of the impact of forward commitments made during the shortage on import prices after the shortage.

However, the delivered price of imports remained above the price of domestic steel until late 1975, long after the shortage had subsided.

Premium prices represent only one, and in some respects not even the most onerous, symptom of the shortage.

Of potentially greater concern is the inability of customers to obtain needed steel supplies—domestic or imported.

Without an adequate supply of steel at reasonable prices, the continuity of production in many vital industries—including capital goods, energy, transportation, construction and others—is threatened.

It seems significant, therefore, that even at the premium prices they were able to obtain, foreign suppliers did not meet the needs of U.S. customers.

The 12-month moving average of imports' share of domestic consumption fell from 18 per cent in 1972 to less than 11 per cent in 1973 and 1974.

On a monthly basis, imports supplied barely eight per cent of the U.S. market during the worst parts of the shortage.

In absolute tons, imports declined 15 per cent between 1972 and 1973, while U.S. apparent consumption increased

Dorris-Garber nuptials at St. Mary's Church

MR. AND MRS. FRANK A. DORRIS JR. Their wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Catholic Church. Formerly Miss Cynthia Lee Garber, the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony F. Garber, 2209 Grand Ave.

Miss Cynthia Lee Garber, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony F. Garber, 2209 Grand Ave., and Frank Anthony Dorris Jr., a son of Mrs. Rita Dorris, 300 Bend Road, East St. Louis, and the late Frank A. Dorris Sr., were united in marriage, on Aug. 13, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Madison.

Father Conrad Motola performed a double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. before an altar adorned with bouquets of carnations and greenery. Organist James Havranek played "Sunshine on My Shoulders," "Wedding March," "Evergreen," "Ave Maria" and "Love Story."

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Fairmont City, after the service. Serving as maid of honor was Miss Patricia A. Therige and bridesmaids included Miss Rhonda Kline, Miss Rita M. Dorris, a sister of the groom, Mrs. Linda Harrison, an aunt of the bride, and Deanna Narrup, the bride's cousin.

They wore identical floral organza Empire gowns in blue, yellow, pink, green and apricot hues. The dresses were created with Empire bodices, scoop necklines edged with ruffles which extended over the shoulders to form short sleeves. A set-in midriff accented the flare A-line skirt enhanced with a ruffle creating an apron effect. Each attendant wore a matching floral headpiece to secure a bouffant veil and carried a nosegay of carnations in shades to match their attire, and white daisies.

For her wedding, the former Miss Garber selected a long white organza over taffeta gown (fashioned with a fitted bodice, Queen Anne neckline and long bishop sleeves), traced with Chantilly lace appliques. The very full bouffant skirt featured lace edged ruffles which cascaded to the floor and swept into a cathedral train. Her floor-length veil was also trimmed with matching lace and she held a colonial bouquet of white roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Shelia Coggins, a cousin of the bride, served as the flower girl and Thomas Miner Jr., was the ring bearer. She was dressed in a blue floral organza frock designed similar to the adult attendants and she held a white wicker basket filled with rose petals. The groom chose his brother, William J. Dorris, as best man. Fred P. Dorris, another brother of the groom, John Dorris, the groom's cousin, Alan Ratkewicz, and Charles Garber, a brother of the bride, were groomsmen.

Jerry Fielder and Wish Ratkewicz escorted the guests to their seats. A graduate of Madison High School the bride also attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She is presently employed at the Venture Store, Fairmont City.

The groom is an Assumption High School graduate and also attended St. Joe. He is now a self-employed farmer. They are now residing in East St. Louis.

DEADLINE ON SEEKING EMERGENCY ASSISTANCE

John L. Smith, Illinois district director of the Small Business Administration, is warning that the deadline is nearing for acceptance of relief applications from businessmen and farmers in 57 Illinois counties included in an economic injury disaster declaration by the Federal Emergency Drought Interagency Coordinating Committee. Madison County is one of the 57.

"Sept. 30 is the deadline," Smith said, "and at this time it must be considered a firm deadline." I encourage any businessmen or farmers who feel they might qualify for relief as the result of drought conditions to make application before that time."

Father must help support children

By E. J. DEMSON, J.D.

Fathers of minor children are sometimes tempted to seek legal loopholes to avoid supporting them. But the law is clear about their responsibilities.

Q. My husband says that if he leaves me for good, but does not get a divorce, he will not have to support our three children, 8, 10 and 11. I'm scared. Is he right? We live in Louisiana.

A. By the act of marrying, parents contract together the obligation to support, maintain and educate their children. This obligation is enforceable by the courts, and may not be avoided by separation or divorce (La. C.C. Sec. 158, 227).

Q. I am an heir in my father's will, and my share may exceed $200,000. If I give my husband $100,000, will I have to pay federal gift tax on this amount?

A. Under the new Federal Tax Reform Act of 1976, there will be no gift tax (effective Dec. 31, 1977) on an unlimited gift tax marital deduction for the first $100,000 of a lifetime gift to a spouse (Act, Sec. 2005). Thus you may make the gift you contemplate without paying federal gift tax.

Q. Please give me the law on fences between neighbors. I say the rule is "six inches from the center line on either side." My neighbor has his fence dead center on the line, and says that's right. I gave "un no consent to build it dead center on the line. A. Once a boundary line is established and recorded, only a written recorded instrument or a court order can change it. Placing a fence on the "dead center" of the line is legal.

Q. Program give me an oral agreement for placing a fence six inches from the line, both parties should abide by it, but it would not be binding on future owners of the land.

Q. My husband and I have been living apart for more than 17 years, and I have recently moved to Arizona, a community property state. Will his financial affairs now become my responsibility in part? When I die, will he have claim to any assets in my name? My will names only my two married children.

A. To legally settle your respective property rights in a community property state, the law requires a legal separation by court decree. If the other party does not object to the decree, if he does, divorce is in order once a 90-day residence requirement is met (ARS Sec. 25-313).

In either case, the court assigns each spouse his or her separate property, and divides community property equitably. Property acquired outside the state is deemed community property if such property would have been community property in Arizona (ARS 25-318).

The importance of protein in the diet

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY, Registered Dietitian

Protein is a component of food that is of prime importance in the nutrition and functioning of the human body, yet is often misunderstood.

The term "protein" means "to come first" and was introduced in 1838 by Mulder, a Dutch chemist. He perceived that certain kinds of food contained nitrogen and without them life was not possible. Knowledge of nutrition was limited in those days and Mulder could not have conceived the importance or complexity of protein components. We know now that protein is part of every living cell. Half of the dry matter of every adult is protein. All enzymes are protein, hormones are either protein or protein derivatives.

Skin, hair, muscle, bone and cartilage, other tissues and body fluids, all contain and are dependent upon protein. The only constituents of the body that normally do not contain protein are urine and bile. If sufficient protein is not supplied by the diet, failure of growth, healing and tissue repair, and loss of existing body tissue results.

It is for these reasons that many crash diets for fast weight loss produce loss of hair, a haggard, drawn appearance and a loss of lean muscle tissue. People on such diets lose protein from the body, rather than fat pads, producing a misshapen figure.

There is a difference between the body's use of endogenous protein (metabolism of body protein) and exogenous protein, which is supplied by the diet. If body protein is being used, a substance called creatinine is excreted. If protein from food is being used, urea is excreted. In the process of starvation the body is burning up its own protein tissue and emaciation of muscle occurs. Skin, hair and body fluids and even heart muscle can actually be used up.

Proteins are highly complex substances made up of amino acids which are literally structural units of protein. The ultimate value of any protein depends upon its amino acid components. They are the essential nutrients rather than the protein itself.

Ingested protein is broken down into the vital amino acids through the human digestive tract. There are 20 amino acids of which eight are classified as "essential," meaning they are indispensable to life and growth. These must be obtained from the diet.

Before protein can be absorbed and utilized by the body, by absorption through the intestinal wall into the bloodstream, it must be broken down into amino acids. This is accomplished by protein-splitting enzymes. Although most digestion begins in the mouth there are no protein-splitting enzymes in saliva. Pepsin, a stomach enzyme, makes the first attack on the protein. All enzymes involved in this action are hydrolytic, meaning that water is necessary to free the amino acid.

Protein is necessary for life, healing and growth, however, we must not omit the important carbohydrates and fats in the diet. Excessive protein places abnormal stress on the kidneys.

Q. Dear Shirley: Do the vitamins you buy in bottles contain calories? Miss J.P.

A. Dear Miss J.P.: Vitamins are chemicals and have no caloric value.

Q. Dear Shirley: Bouillon does not contain any calories so I assume I can have it whenever I feel hungry.

A. Dear Shirley: It is true that bouillon does not have any calories but it is high in sodium. If you are trying to lose weight it may cause undesirable bloating.

Creates prize-winning recipe

Jamoca, a lightly flavored coffee ice cream, Heath toffee bars and Creme de Cocoa were combined by Mrs. James L. (Ola) Doyle of Granite City to create "1-2-3 Elegant Dessert" and win one of 75 special awards in the national "Ice Cream Show-Off" contest sponsored by Baskin-Robbins 31 Ice Cream Company.

Mrs. Doyle, 2245 Washington Ave., was congratulated and toasted with triple-decker ice cream cones Thursday by Robert Jones, owner-operator of the Baskin-Robbins 31 Ice Cream store in the American Village Shopping Center.

The recipe of Mrs. Doyle, chosen from more than 12,000 entered from the United States and Canada, won a Doubleday Cookbook prize in the pie category.

Announcement of her selection was made at a regional convention of Baskin-Robbins franchise owners at Evansville, Ind., attended by Jones and his wife, Becky.

In the nationwide contest, five newspaper food editors served as judges, selecting one grand prize winner, first through sixth place finishes in each of the four categories, 75 special award winners and 31 honorable mention.

From over 12,000 original recipes submitted, a total of 131 prizes was awarded. In announcing the winners, the judges commented on the unusual number of winning recipes that used peanuts this year.

Peanuts or peanut butter appeared in every category of competition, from ice cream spectaculars and individual treats to various types of sandwiches and soda.

Each dessert was judged not only for eye and appetite appeal, but also for originality, practicality and interesting use of ice cream.

Jones said the grand prize winner in the contest was the "Presidential Ice Cream Pie" of Mrs. Marguerite Balbach of La Crescenta, Calif.

It features Pralines 'N Cream ice cream, a refrigerated peanut butter cookie crust, a peanut butter and date sauce, and a lavish sprinkling of chopped peanuts over a whipped cream topping.

Jamoca ice cream, used in Mrs. Doyle's recipe, is a registered trademark of Baskin-Robbins.

Mrs. Doyle's recipe is called simple to make, "heavenly" to taste and elegant in appearance, when served in champagne glasses.

The ingredients call for one quart of Jamoca ice cream; three Heath bars (crushed); and two ounces of Creme de Cocoa for each of four servings.

The ice cream is slightly thawed and shaped into four balls, and then rolled in the crushed Heath bars and re-frozen. The balls are placed in champagne glasses and the Creme de Cocoa is poured over each serving.

The grand prize winner received a two-week vacation for two persons in the British Isles.

The consortium's capital funding request includes $1.2 million for the transmitter tower and building, $150,000 for land, $1.7 million for transmission equipment and $50,000 for utility extensions for the tower and building.

A 40-acre site near Old Ripley in Bond County has been proposed for the transmitter location.

The facility would consist of a triangular, guyed, 1,200-foot television antenna tower and a single story, pre-fabricated building of 2,600 square feet of floor space to house the transmitter, shop and associated equipment.

Regnell said the site has been selected to provide maximum coverage into Southwestern Illinois, with minimal overlap with signals from public television stations in Carbondale and St. Louis.

Further, the positioning of the transmitter east and north of the SIUE campus reduces coverage in Missouri and increases it in Illinois, he said.

The proposed location satisfies the requirements of the Federal Aviation Administration for "no hazard to air transportation and navigation."

The clearance is based on current air lanes, as well as proposed air lanes if an airport is built near Columbia.

If the capital funding request is approved, the operating budget for 1978-79 represents a partial budget, adequate for the construction and development phase of operations prior to broadcasting.

Positions required immediately are those necessary as staff for the consortium and to plan and build the station.

Regnell said other positions will be phased in later when needed to deal with future concerns in engineering, programming, and liaison with schools and other agencies in the coverage area.

In addition to this region, Channel 18 is to serve portions of Illinois counties where present educational television signals are either poor, unreliable or non-existent.

Regnell said. These include Fayette, Marion and Shelby Counties and portions of Sangamon, Bond, Christian, Macoupin, Greene, Jersey and Morgan Counties.

According to the executive director of SIPT, Channel 18 will serve 85,000 students in more than 400 school districts in 600 communities not now served adequately by an Illinois-oriented educational television station. The region to be served has a population of one million.

Walker closes door on running in 1978

"I have decided that I will seek no political office in 1978. That decision is neither temporary nor political; it is final, irrevocable and intensely personal," former Governor Daniel Walker said Thursday.

"This was not an easy decision. Many good friends urged me to keep up the fight for the kind of politics and government in which we believe. Some said I should run for governor; others argued for the United States Senate.

"Still others close to me—including my family—have urged me just as strongly to stay in private life.

"I owe much to those who have fought by my side in the past and are ready to fight again. I hope that they will understand and accept my decision.

"My first obligation is to those whom I love. Second, I owe a responsibility to those who have cast their lot with me in the practice of law. That includes not only some close friends but also one of my sons and one of my daughters.

"I want that law firm to succeed—just as I want my new outdoor club to succeed. Running for office in 1978 could jeopardize both.

"I believe I have succeeded in bringing some degree of reform to the Democratic party and to state government. I shall continue that fight, even if not as a candidate for public office. The party in Illinois will never be what it can and should be until we have truly open primary elections. Those who seek constantly to have the decision makers in the party be as few as possible rather than as many as possible are the worst enemies of the party.

"There are those who will say that I do not run because I dare not risk defeat. History should have taught them otherwise. I remain firmly of the belief that I could defeat the incumbent governor.

"And make no mistake—he deserves to be defeated. He continues to demonstrate an almost arrogant disregard of the true dignity and responsibilities of the high office he holds. He is the least conscientious governor we have had in recent years.

"Despite my dislike for what I fear will be the process for selecting the candidates, I will support the Democratic nominees. For the sake of our state, we must defeat the incumbent and I will do my utmost to help in that effort.

"I have no regrets. I shall not look over my shoulder. I prefer to reiterate my thanks to all those who have believed in me and worked for me.

"I said five years ago that my life was not dependent on politics. It still is not. I shall concentrate on the practice of law, as I did before.

"I tried as governor to make government work better for people and I believe I succeeded. I shall now try as a lawyer to make legal services more available to people who need them."

best advantage and provide flexibility," Portell said in saying he has been able to work with Laborers, Teamsters and Painters' locals in achieving flexible procedures.

From five to seven men are used to rebuild sanitary sewer lines, and another five to eight are utilized on certain days in doing televising and grouting of underground sewer lines.

Progress that has been made may enable bypass pumping in the vicinity of sewer breaks to be ended by the end of this calendar year, Supt. Portell says.

Two men are kept busy replacing and repairing signs, and there are two mechanics and three painters. A two-man crew handles regular sewer maintenance and one or two workers are used in street sweeping.

Another two men do blacktop and cold patch repairs, with five to ten at various times utilized to repair sidewalks and curbs, pick up trees and limbs and clean out catch-basins, the superintendents relate.

He commends City Council members for enabling the variety of equipment to be expanded over the years, especially a backhoe that enabled them to do more and stop doing so much pick-and-shovel work.

There are 25 trucks and vehicles, including three high-lifts, a tractor, two graders, two television rigs, a routing machine, vacuum unit, two graders, two mosquito sprayers and a paint truck.

Thanks to newly-available equipment, snow removal is expected to be carried out on a greater scale this winter, Portell notes.

Theft charged

After he allegedly tried on a pair of $4 canvas shoes and left his old shoes on the rack at P. N. Hirsch Store, Leonard Prothro, 18, of 805 Bissel Ave., Venice, was arrested on a charge of theft filed by the store manager at 12:38 p.m. Saturday.

At the police station, officers said they noted Prothro was wearing two pairs of pants, one pair bearing a sales tag from Carp's Department Store. He also was charged with theft of an $8.95 pair of slacks.

He was released at 2:35 p.m. on $104 cash bail.

Five men flee

Two vehicles parked near each other were broken into and an attempt was made to steal one last week. Officers were told five men in their early 20s were seen leaving 2331 Winters Drive, looking through some papers in the early morning hours. The men left before police arrived.

Officers found the car of Ella Smallie, 2331 Winters Drive, had been entered and papers removed. The papers were found under a nearby tree. The car's ignition wires had been pulled out in an unsuccessful attempt to start the vehicle.

The pickup truck of Larry Waskula, 254 E. 24th St., parked at his home, also was broken into and a citizens' band radio was stolen. The left wing vent window was broken to gain entry.

Office for adult student services

Plans have been made to establish an Office of Adult Student Services on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Robert Bruker, director of admissions and records at the university, said the office should be in operation by the time students return to the campus for fall quarter registration on Thursday.

Since colleges and universities have begun to actively encourage adults to return to school for retraining when they need it or further their education when they want it, there is a pressing need for such an office, Earl Larson, vice-president and provost, believes.

Located in the suite of offices occupied by the Office of Admissions and Records in the John S. Rendleman Building, the Office of Adult Student Services will be geared toward aiding the part-time student who may find it difficult getting to the campus during normal workday hours.

The new office will be open Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 5 until 9:30 p.m.; Fridays from 8 a.m. until noon.

The office will also be open during the day Monday through Friday from 8 until 11 a.m. Services in the Office of Adult Student Services will include the dissemination of general academic and student service information and the distribution of catalogs, class schedules and other brochures.

The office also will be equipped to handle transcript requests, issue and accept admission materials and graduation applications, make schedule changes, and conduct exit interviews with students withdrawing from school, other services will be added as they are needed, Bruker said.

"Now that our campus is rapidly becoming a center for lifelong learning for a number of our older residents, in addition to being a short-term tour of study for our young people, we have found it necessary to better the environment for our part-time adult students," Bruker added.

"During the fall quarter, we expect to have over 3,500 part-time students enrolled, the greatest majority of whom will be attending classes during the evening," he said.

Most of them are fully employed in businesses and industries in this region. Last year, more than 3,700 part-time students attended SIUE, accounting for one-third of the total headcount enrollment.

The ages for these part-time students ranged from 18 to 73 years. The average age of the part-time student attending the University last fall was 30 years.

Eighty-five per cent of the part-time students at SIUE are employed off-campus. Eighty per cent of them attended classes after 5 p.m.

The part-time students differ from their full-time counterparts in that they are generally older and more mature, Bruker said. This type of student is also more highly oriented to vocational and professional degrees, he said.

"There doesn't seem to be any particular concentration of quarters during which the part-time students attend the university. Attendance seems to be fairly spread throughout the year," Bruker noted.

The increase in numbers of older people attending SIUE is regarded as somewhat indicative of what is happening all over the nation.

In 1969, more than a half-million people over 30 were enrolled in college. By 1974, the number of older adults going to college had topped one million and was still growing. The majority of these adults attended classes part-time.

It is probably true that part-time students at SIUE, and at other colleges and universities, have been inadvertently slighted in the planning of academic programs. Too often they have been caught up on the middle of changes which have been made to institutional or curricular requirements," Bruker said.

"It is not uncommon for the part-time student to spend eight to ten years completing a degree. During this time, it is a certainty that his or her degree requirements will change one or more times.

"Such changes are sometimes made without appropriate allowances for students who must attend college on a part-time basis.

"There are certain kinds of services that are simply not available during the evening hours. The Office of Adult Student Services is an attempt to bring the normal range of student services to this group of people."

Jakich gets present as Trojans win, 28-18

It was long time coming... maybe that made it sweeter.

What it was was Madison head football coach Nick Jakich's first victory in that position since he took over the job on the day before the season started last year. The Trojans went winless in nine outings in '76.

But Saturday afternoon was a completely different story. The Trojans dominated from the opening play until the final gun and beat St. Genevieve High of Valle, Mo. 28-18.

"The guys were ready to play football the minute they hit the field," Jakich said of his team. "They were hungry."

And how! The Trojans scored the first three times they had the ball and racked up a 24-0 lead at halftime.

The outstanding Trojan on the ground was James Heard. He gained 184 yards rushing and scored one touchdown.

"Heard had an excellent game," said Jakich. "It was almost unbelievable the way the guys were fired up."

Earnest Davenport, who is one of Heard's teammates on the state-champion Trojan basketball team, scored Madison's first touchdown of the season in the first quarter on an eight-yard run from scrimmage. The point-after-touchdown made it 7-0. The Trojans never looked back.

Ronald Morris scored a second period touchdown for the Trojans on a 12-yard run to make the lead 14-0.

Then the only remaining member of Madison's starting backfield without a touchdown got himself one. Quarterback Joe Pelechowski scored on a quarterback sneak in the second quarter.

His extra-point kick failed and Madison went into the locker room at the half with a surprising 21-0 lead. Surprising at least to St. Genevieve, not to Madison.

"It's a different feeling, I'll tell you," Jakich said. "Having all three members of the backfield score is tremendous."

Another thing that impressed Jakich was the discipline his team demonstrated. "We didn't have a single penalty in the first half," he said. "I'm not sure exactly what the guys were doing, but it sure was nice."

Heard scored his touchdown in the third quarter on a 24-yard run from scrimmage. With Pelechowski's pass to Heard for the two-point conversion, the score was Madison 28, St. Genevieve 0. It looked as if it would be all downhill from there.

But St. Genevieve wasn't ready to give up... yet. The visitors scored three times in the final quarter to narrow the gap at the gun to 28-18, but it was all over long before then.

"I'll tell you," said Jakich, "those guys were getting tired out there."

With a smaller-than-average number of players out for football, Jakich has found it necessary to play many of them both ways — on offense and defense.

"It was hot out there, and they were just getting down," he added. "I also think they could have been concerned about Nick Fecurka."

Fecurka was injured on the first play of the fourth quarter. A St. Genevieve player landed on his back, bending it to the ground.

"I really thought it was broken," said Jakich. "I was tending to him until an ambulance came, and I guess the guys got worried."

But all of Jakich's fears were for naught. Fecurka was found to be all right... even though the aches and pains he'll have when he gets up for the next few mornings will make him think different.

"Our defense stood out, I thought," said Jakich. "They were just getting tired toward the end."

That's one thing that Madison's going to have to work on for next week's game on the road.

"Conditioning could be a factor down the road," Jakich added.

"With so many going both ways, it will be a factor."

But right now, Nick Jakich and his team wait to enjoy their first victory since 1975 just a little more.

Seeers freeze; Jefferson City stomps on South

North swamps Cahokia, 20-0

For Granite City North, it was a good way to kick off the season. For Cahokia, it's back to the drawing board.

The Steelers mounted an over-powering ground attack and romped past the Comanches 20-0 Friday night in the season opener for both schools at South field in Granite City.

But it wasn't the powerful ground game that gave North its first touchdown of the '77 season. It was the equally-as-slow defense.

With 8:10 remaining in the second quarter, Dave Price pounced on a Cahokia fumble in the end zone for the Steelers' first score. Jeff Hamilton's PAT made the score 7-0.

But it didn't take long for North to get that ground attack cranked up. Pounding away at the Comanches, the Steelers gained an unbelievable 320 yards rushing in the game, compared to only 23 for Cahokia.

"I was real pleased with the way our guys performed," said North coach Tom Wyrstek. "Of course, there were some who were more pleased with and others who we didn't think performed up to their capacity, but that will come."

Even though the Steelers were mounting up the yards, they had a little difficulty in pushing the ball across the goal line a few times.

One of the times they had no trouble was with 24 seconds left in the first half. At that time, Mike Sherman slanted off-tackle and raced 52 yards for North's second TD. The extra point try was missed and the halftime score was 13-0.

In the second half, North continued its ground surge, but couldn't score, thus allowing Cahokia to think it was still in the game and giving the visitors a within-reach goal of 19 points to score in order to catch up. But they didn't.

The score remained the same until, with just 14 seconds left in the game, quarterback Doug Hains ran seven yards to the touchdown. With Hamilton's kick, the final score was 20-0. "We committed a few first-game mistakes," said Wyrstek. "We had four fumbles, but I think that's partly to be expected in the first game."

"In looking at other games around the area, I see that just about everybody fumbled in the first game. But it can't go on forever."

Then Wyrstek turned philosophical a moment. "The team that's gonna win this thing in the end is gonna be the one that makes the fewest mistakes."

One thing that was impressive about the Steelers' win was their ability to control the tempo of the game. Displaying a vicious ground attack, they gained only 17 yards in the air. They didn't need to throw.

"We controlled the ball for 17 and-a-half minutes out of 24," said Wyrstek. "I'm really pleased with that."

Wyrstek wouldn't single out a particular player as having had a singularly outstanding game. "We have a team out there on the field, and I think it's the team aspect that's important."

From the looks of things, there is going to be some kind of team out on the field for Granite City North this season.

Spalding, Walsh season champions

With Spalding did it Saturday night.

He won the Late Model Championship at Tri City Speedway Saturday night in the 50-lap Palefist Classic.

But it wasn't an easy task. Russ Wallace of Arnold, Mo., took the lead but lost it to Spalding on the second lap. Spalding held that lead until the 30th lap.

At that point, Bill Myers of East Alton grabbed the lead and looked as if he was going to win it going away.

But something happened that Myers hadn't bargained for... his car blew up. Nothing exremely serious, that is unless you're leading a race with only seven laps to go. It occurred on the 43rd lap. Spalding sped into the lead and won the Classic.

C. C. Corbin of East Alton was the handicap winner in the Late Models.

Heat winners were Corbin, Terry Spalding, Myers, and Ed Dixon of Washington, Mo.

The top finishers in the classic were: Spalding first, Kenny Shrum of St. Charles second, Willie Johnston of St. Charles third, Les Gettemer, also of St. Charles, fourth, Wallace fifth and Jerry Sifford of Imperial, Mo., sixth.

The "B" Feature (15 laps) winner was Terry Spalding. He finished ahead of Dixon in second place and Mike Fodeleach of St. Louis, third. In the sixth lap of the classic, Corbin and Ed Shneider collided, knocking Corbin out of the race. However, there were no serious injuries to either driver.

Because of last week's rain-out, the Late Models were forced to be held Saturday night, doubling up with the Sportsman Class Championship.

YMCA offering men's physical fitness classes

The YMCA men's fitness program started at the local "Y," with classes from 7:15 to 8 a.m., 12 noon-12:45 p.m. and 5:15-6 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The classes begin with flexibility exercises and exercises geared to strengthen stomach and lower back muscles.

The jogging portion of the class will consist of the interval training method. Specifically, there will be four three-minute jogging intervals, with one minute rest intervals between each three-minute run.

The program is designed to lower the resting heart rate and to make the heart a more efficient muscle.

"Heart disease has grown alarmingly in the U.S. and today is the biggest single killer in our country. Coronary heart disease is responsible for more deaths than cancer," Tri-City YMCA Physical Director Edward R. Mercer commented.

"The average heart rate, while standing, is about 78 beats per minute. However, the well-conditioned individual's heart rate is much lower."

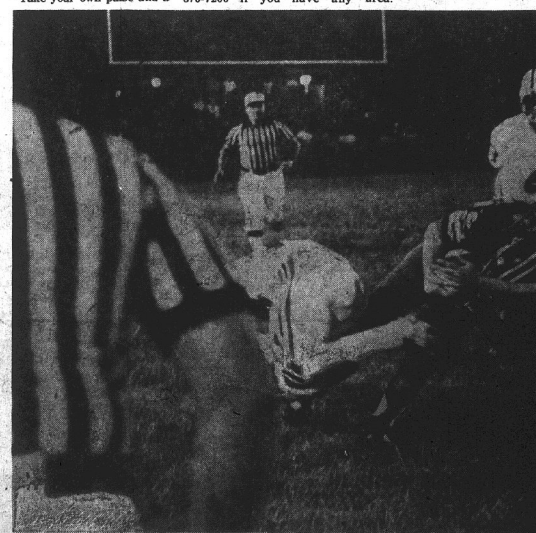

The "B" Feature (15 laps) winner was Terry Spalding. He finished ahead of Dixon in second place and Mike Fodeleach of St. Louis, third. In the sixth lap of the classic, Corbin and Ed Shneider collided, knocking Corbin out of the race. However, there were no serious injuries to either driver.

Because of last week's rain-out, the Late Models were forced to be held Saturday night, doubling up with the Sportsman Class Championship.

"In highly trained athletes, a heart rate of 40 per minute is not unusual. Take your own pulse and if you find that it is too high, the professional level. The program is personnel to help. Contact me at 876-7200 if you have any questions about your own fitness level. The program is available to all in the Tri-City area."

AN OLD STORY Saturday night was a Warrior getting tackled by a Jefferson City player... or two. Here, Mike Forshee is brought down in the second quarter. The Missourians won the season opener.

Sports

South victim of 41-0 football rout

"We learned a lesson from Jefferson City," said South head football coach Stan Wojcik. "We learned that we have to block and that we have to tackle."

The lesson was a hard one for the Warriors to swallow. The team from Missouri stomped on South 41-0 in the South season-opener Saturday at home.

"They're a very good football team," said Wojcik. "That goes without saying." But Wojcik doesn't feel that his team performed at its best... at least he hopes not.

"If we can give Forshee (quarterback Mike) time to throw and Moran (running back Cliff) some blocking, we will be all right."

"But the fundamentals just weren't there."

A tough, overpowering Jefferson City defense limited the Warriors to a minus-three yards that's right MINUS-three on the ground. Meanwhile, the visitors' offense performed to perfection.

Wojcik looks at it this way:

"We have to learn from our mistakes, of course, but we also have to be able to bounce back, put this one behind us and get ready for O'Fallon."

The Warriors play O'Fallon this Friday in an 8 p.m. contest.

"If we can't find some guys on the team who can bounce back," he added, "we'll just go out and find us somebody else."

Besides the South-O'Fallon game this Friday, GCHS North is at Collinsville, a 27-7 loss to Bethalto in its first game. Madison is on the road at Warrenton, Mo., for a Friday night contest.

In other area games, Edwardsville hosts Danville, Carlyle is at Murphysboro, East St. Louis Assumption is at Alton, Marquette, Belleville Alhott is at Belleville East, Cahokia is at Alton, and Belleville West is at Parkway North.

For Stan Wojcik and his Warriors, however, they'll just have to try to live and learn... and bounce back at O'Fallon Friday night.

North, South tie in Steeler Invitational

Granite City North and South didn't prove anything to the other Saturday in the North Cross Country Invitational. They tied for sixth place with 180 points each.

North star Mike Baker, however, continued to prove that he is the area's top runner by winning the meet. He ran it in a time of 13:23.

Belleville West was the team winner. The Maroons beat out their cross-town rival Belleville East 92-105 for top honors.

Two-time champion Lebanon was third with 107 points, followed by Peoria Central with 150 and East St. Louis with 171.

Other team finishers included: O'Fallon 205, Alton 227, Jacksonville 238, Centralia 246, Mascoutah 289, E. St. Louis Lincoln 315, Highland 355, Mt. Vernon 357, and Wood River 413.

Edwardsville and St. Paul of Highland ran but didn't have enough runners to qualify for a score.

Former Trojan Graville going strong in California

Former Madison athlete and coach Mike Graville is doing all right for himself as the coach and athletic director at Corcoran High School in Corcoran, Calif.

Graville, a 1962 graduate of Madison High School, was an all-conference quarterback his senior year, an all-conference guard on the Trojan basketball team, and played on the varsity basketball team at the University of Illinois before graduating from there in 1966.

He has coached at the Savannah, Ill., Junior High and been an assistant coach at Madison High and DuQuoin High School, before moving on as head coach at La Harpe and Virden, Ill.

Graville moved on in 1974 to Corcoran, where he assumed the head football coaching duties. He was appointed athletic director earlier this year.

He was selected to be a head coach at the eleventh annual Tulare-Kings all-star football game, which was played on Aug. 10. The game annually pits the best of the area's previous-season seniors against each other in an east-west format. Graville was the coach of the west squad.

MIKE GRAVILLE

The Graville-coached all-stars won the game handily, 36-0.

In his seven years of coaching in Illinois and California, Graville's teams have compiled a record of 41-27 and have won three conference championships. He is the son of Hilda and Vasil Graville, of Madison. He and his wife, Gloria, who is a counselor at Corcoran High, have three children, Michael, Lance and Stephanie.

STEELER SOCCER PLAYER Eric Painter gets set to try a penalty kick against Morton West of Chicago

Far, far south side of Chicago beats Windy City teams here

The two Chicago teams probably hope they never again have to go south.

Morton West and Gordon Tech, two of Chicago's strongest soccer schools, got a rude awakening to the fact that there is something south of the South side of the windy city this weekend.

They were beaten in two straight games by both Granite City North and South Friday and Saturday in a round-robin sort of affair held at North field. On Friday, North got things rolling with a 3-0 win over Morton West. Kevin Robertson scored first for the Steelers at 11:40 of the first quarter.

In the third quarter, Eric Thornburg scored on a penalty kick to make North's lead 2-0. That came at the 17:42 mark. The Steelers' final goal came at the 10 minute mark of the final period. Kefalas put a pass from Mike Painter and scored to make the final margin.

"We played in spurts," said Coach Bob Kehos after the game. We started out kind of slow, but then we got it going later in the first half."

"I think they (North) may have been a little psyched out at first," he added, "because of the team being from Chicago. But they got over it and started playing their style of game."

The Granite City South-Gordon Tech contest was a tight-matched game.

With about 17 minutes left in the game, South leading 5-0, Warrior John Krevich kicked the ball away and the string was intact.

The next game for South is this afternoon. The Warrior's play Kennedy High from West St. Louis in the CAC Tournament. North will play next Saturday in the Peoria Tournament.

Coach Duffy Bass has 13 lettersmen available this fall, and six of them are on the pitching staff.

Three of ISU's top four hurlers return from a 23-25 campaign. Four starters return in the infield, including third baseman Jeff Gilbert of Clarendon Hills (Proviso West) who missed most of last season with a dislocated thumb. The others are first baseman Mark Gallagher of Northbrook (Glenbrook North), second baseman Greg Linhart of Granite City South and shortstop Jeff Zitek of Berwyn (Morton West).

Two outfield regulars returning are Mike Martinez of Granite City South and Dave Loopman of Deerfield. Martinez led the Redbirds in hitting last spring with a .316 average.

The 'Y' has a new kid in town

It was quite a change for Ed Mercer and his wife, Dawn, when they moved to Granite City. They're from a rural area of New York state and not from an urban area such as this.

"But they're going to make a home in Granite City because Ed has a new job. He's the new physical director at the Tri-City YMCA in Granite City.

In fact, Ed's so new on the job that he and Dawn are still waiting on their furniture to arrive from New York (they moved here a week ago). They have found a house on Cleveland Boulevard in Granite City.

How did a 26-year-old physical education major from upstate New York end up in Granite City, Ill.?

"Paul Grennell — the program director at the Tri-City 'Y' — was working at the YMCA in Ithaca (New York) when I was there," said Mercer. "After he left to come here, I called him and asked that, if there were any openings, to let me know."

Ed worked last year as a substitute teacher in Ithaca. He's a native of Woodstock, N.Y., (famous for rock concerts).

He is a graduate of Cortland State College in New York and graduated with a bachelor's degree in physical education. He attended Ithaca College his freshman and sophomore years and played in intercollegiate baseball on the varsity team.

An avid sportsman, Mercer is intent on having a strong series of programs at the Tri-City 'Y.' "I think that it's very important for everyone to be in good shape, especially in the cardiovascular area."

Mercer has a strong feeling about the circulatory system. "Losing weight for cosmetic purposes is one thing," he said. "But if the heart and lungs go, that's all she wrote."

What's his reaction to the local area? "I haven't been here long enough really," he said, "but what I've seen is certainly different from home."

He will be responsible for all of the adult programming at the Tri-City YMCA and also will be taking over all of the aquatics in the near future.

Mercer is impressed with the facilities at the Tri-City 'Y.' "It's an old building, of course," he said. "But it's just immense. There's so much space and really, there's a lot of unused space (vacant rooms)."

While they wait on their furniture, Dawn is looking for a job... she's a secretary by trade.

"We don't know too many people in Granite City yet," Mercer said. "But I'm sure we will soon."

Being a physical education major and the physical director at the YMCA, Ed is obviously athletically inclined.

"I love all sports," he said. "but my first love is baseball. I hope I can start throwing again soon and get back with it (he's a pitcher)."

Being from New York, Ed is a Yankee fan. But he has also had a strong feeling for this area's favorite, the St. Louis Cardinals. "I especially like Ted Simmons," he said. "I think he's the best catcher in baseball."

But Mercer has a lot of work to do before the next baseball season rolls around. He says it's taking most of his time right now to get situated.

"I'm down at the 'Y' most of the time right now," he said. "But after I get accustomed to it, things won't take me as long to do as they do right now."

A strong background, a good personality, a liking for people in general... these things won't hurt Ed Mercer in his new job.

NEW YMCA PHYSICAL DIRECTOR, Ed Mercer, has arrived on the scene and hopes to get the area "in shape."

The equity in your house is like money in your pocket.

Equity is the difference between how much your home is worth, and what you owe on it.

It's a valuable asset you can use to back a really big loan. For whatever you have in mind.

Real-estate values are up, up, up.

So the house you bought just a few years ago probably would sell for a lot more than you paid.

Which means your equity is bigger. And the bigger your equity, the more you can borrow in a large real-estate loan. Right here. Right now.

Maybe the money you're looking for is already in the house.

Time to get ready for deer hunt

By ART SCHUMANN

There's more than shooting to a deer hunt.

The sport is difficult and it takes a great deal of preparation without a guarantee a hunter will even see his prey in the field.

It's simply not easy to outwit a whitetail in his own environment. Deer know every sound and scent in their area and everything to be seen.

If a whitetail detects anything strange — sound or scent — it avoids the area. And deer have exceptionally keen eyesight, extremely sharp hearing and highly sensitive scent canals. They also have a natural camouflage that allows them to blend in with fall colors.

Many hunters have reported deer disappearing through a dense thicket at top speed while hardly disturbing a twig. Or, they can silently and unseen slip behind a hunter.

Prospective deer hunters should begin preparing for the hunt by learning all they can about the whitetail's habits and instincts.

Libraries have books on the subject and most sports publications carry articles during their late summer or early fall editions that can be very helpful.

It's also a good idea to visit the area where the hunt will take place prior to the season. Being familiar with the terrain, brush areas and water sources is invaluable.

Locating deer trails and discovering where they intersect is also a good idea. However, it should be remembered that deer use different trails at different times of the year depending on available cover, food and water.

Once familiar with the hunting area, the hunter can decide whether to hunt from a blind, a tree stand or by stalking or still hunting.

The hunter also should know his weapon well and how to use it. Most deer hunters work hard at shooting accuracy whether they use a bow or gun.

Another handy piece of equipment is deer scent which hunters use to mask human scent in the field. There are different types, but most are developed to provide the natural scent of doe or of natural foods such as acorns, grapes or apples.

One of the hazards avoided by using deer scent is the frequently changing winds which make it virtually impossible to move through deer country with the wind continually in the hunter's face.

Most seasoned deer hunters know that right now is the time of year to organize their hunting parties, decide the type of accommodations, the base location and who will be responsible for what.

The time to talk about who will drive, who will buy groceries and who will do the cooking or clean the camp is something that should be determined well in advance.

It's also important that every hunter in the party knows how to dress a deer in the field and how to protect and take care of the meat.

Hunting gear also can be checked during the summer and put in order. Hunting clothing and boots should be waterproofed, the hunting knife sharpened, the maps prepared and numerous other details taken care of.

And remember that liquor and guns don't mix. Be sure all members of the party agree.

If any member of your party has a physical problem that needs to be considered, don't overlook it in the preparations for the hunt.

Take time to find out the source of the closest medical assistance in case of emergency. In that regard, car keys should never be carried afixed by the driver but should be left in camp where they are immediately available to all members of the hunt in case of emergency.

Men swimmers outclass the ladies

By STEVE BRAND

LOS ANGELES — "It will be impossible to keep us from being on top," George Haines, August, 1977.

"I'm not overly optimistic. I think by 1980 we will have closed the gap, but we can't expect the other countries to sit still," George Haines, August, 1977.

What's that, George? Double-talk?

Not really.

George Haines, former Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club coach and current head swim coach at University of California, Los Angeles, was simply referring to two different segments of the sport.

Men and women. The something less than optimistic statement is aimed at women's swimming while the ultra-positive words were directed toward the men.

Haines knows of what he speaks. The 53-year-old has 27 years of swimming experience, from competitor to five-time Olympic coach.

And, while Haines is bullish on the men, he isn't exactly pessimistic concerning the women.

"This year's Nationals and dual meets with the Russians and East Germans will tell if we've made the progress we're hoping to make," says Haines.

"One has to understand that our age group program in swimming paid dividends in the Olympics from 1960 on.

The Russians and East Germans, who have only recently started powerful age group programs, are realizing the benefits now.

"We have a good group of young swimmers, girls like Nancy Hoguehead, Jennifer Hooker, and Tracy Caulkins, for example."

"However, consider the world listings. The East Germans placed seven swimmers ahead of some of our girls in the back and breast-strokes."

The retirement of Shirley Babashoff has opened the sport to new names, Leslie Mender, Patty Martinez and Teri McKeever.

The swimmer Haines felt had the strongest chance of making the Olympics in Moscow, however, was Marc Foreman, not at the University of Tennessee.

And that shifted the conversation to men's swimming.

"We lost John Naber," noted Haines, "but he's the only one who doesn't appear to have three or four people ready to move right into his place."

"In every other event (except the backstroke), we have a wealth of talent. Peter Rocca, if healthy, could fill for John."

"Swimmers like Scott Spann, Jack Babashoff, Joe Bottom and Jim Montgomery will be around for the next Olympics. When Mark Spitz retired, many felt we'd never dominate like that again. They're saying the same thing with Naber retiring."

If the East Germans and Russians have been able to excel in the women's events, why not the men?

Haines isn't positive it won't happen. But the system which produces super women swimmers doesn't have the same impact on men, who swim longer and are able to get the competitive edge they need through college.

"Look at the medal winners at the last Olympics and you'll see the average woman is 16½ to 17½-years-old," says Haines. "even with the improvement in college swimming for women, you won't see the same thing happen there that has happened to the men."

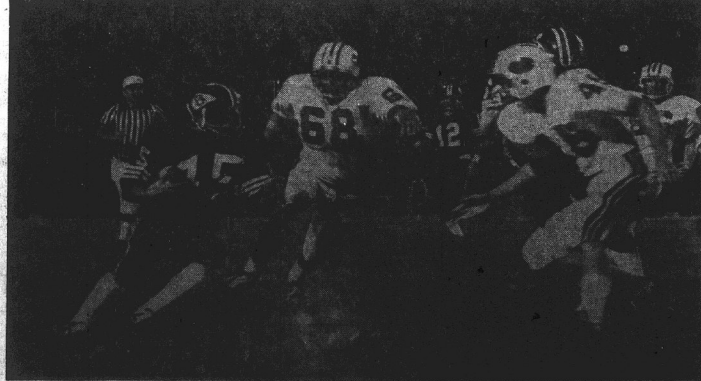

"Men already used a type of weight training, so no country could utilize our training methods and add in things like weight training for strength."

"That's one area we see great improvement for our women. We've looked at the women who use light weights for flexibility exercises and we don't see the large muscle development many fear, either right away or in the latter years."

"We're still way behind in sports medicine but we're making progress there, too. Our system is different from East Germany and Russia and our kids probably wouldn't like theirs."

"They take kids at age 7 and 8 and test them to see what sports they are best adapted for. Then, if they see progress, they'll move the entire family close to a training facility."

"It works for them but in our country, where we prefer mass participation, it would be too rigid."

Hemorrhoids are prevalent

(American Medical Association)

Hemorrhoids, commonly known as piles, are one of the most common health problems encountered today.

They are enlarged veins inside or just outside the rectum, somewhat like varicose veins in the legs.

A frequent cause is constipation that results in straining, but there can be other causes as well. Anything that interferes with flow of blood through the rectal veins can cause the problem.

Hemorrhoids themselves seldom are dangerous to life. But the condition that causes them can sometimes be serious and should be corrected.

They can cause considerable pain and discomfort. Hemorrhoids do not turn into cancer, but rectal symptoms that appear to be hemorrhoids may actually be caused by cancer.

Many cases can be relieved by medical treatment. Some require surgery, but the operation usually is not a serious one.

If hemorrhoids are caused by constipation, they can be made worse by self-treatment, especially if laxatives are used regularly.

Continued bleeding can cause anemia. If a blood clot forms in a protruding vein, hemorrhoids can be extremely painful. If untreated, they can break and hemorrhage.

Hemorrhoids are common among women during pregnancy.

Every expectant mother should see her doctor early in pregnancy. Prevention of hemorrhoids is one of the things he will discuss with her.

Even though you have no apparent symptoms, your doctor often will make a rectal examination each time you report for a physical checkup. Only in this way can beginning cases of medical problems of the rectum be discovered early.

File 2 charges

John M. Breeze, 26, of 3012 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested last week at his home and was charged with aggravated battery and discharging a firearm within the city limits.

Mrs. Loretta Brooks, 4701 Kirkpatrick Homes, alleged she went to Breeze's home to discuss a disagreement between the children of the two families and Breeze came to the door with a shotgun in his hands, pointing it at her.

She alleged she pushed the gun aside and it discharged. Breeze stated the gun was knocked aside with a baseball bat and Breeze's trigger finger was injured at that time.

Police took him to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for an abrasion to his left index finger. X-rays showed no break and he was released to police.

Venice school tax levy shows drop

A new tax levy of $896,000, approved last week by the Venice Board of Education, is a reduction of $164,612 from the 1976-77 tax levy of $1,060,612.

The 1977-78 budget for the Venice School District, adopted Aug. 17, is set at $2,415,599, including $537,247 in funds for Venice-Lincoln Technical Center. The latter is reimbursed through federal and state sources.

In the new levy, the educational fund tax is set at $700,000, down $145,777 from last year's levy of $845,777. An extension rate of $100,000 in the operating, building and maintenance fund is set down $19,085 from the 1976-77 levy. Also down are working cash fund and fire prevention and safety levies, both set at $15,000 and lower by $558 from the previous figures.

A levy of $35,000 was set in the transportation fund, $3,289 less than last year's $38,289. Liability insurance remains the same, $1,000.

The sole amount higher in the new tax levy is for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, which is set at $30,000 in the new levy, $7,063 above the 1976-77 figure of $22,937.

EPA with sketchy details of the sales routine, the state has been unable to determine the exact legality of the incidents.

The telephone number of the Illinois EPA Collinsville office is 345-6220.

"If anyone in this area is contacted by someone claiming to be with the Illinois EPA, they can verify the person's identity by telephoning our regional office in Collinsville," Stephen Gunning, attorney for the Agency's Division of Public Water Supplies, said.

The Illinois EPA does not officially lend its name to any product for endorsement," Gunning said, "and if someone is using the name of the Agency to gain entry into homes to sell water treatment devices, they are doing so without our consent."

Fall fertilizing helpful to lawns

By WAYNE B. SIEPERT
Area Horticulture Advisor
Mid-September fertilizing of bluegrass is the key to dense turf and good color. Fall fertilizing promotes vigorous growth of bluegrass and fescue while many weeds are dying or dormant.

Struggling bluegrass plants will suddenly become dark green as cool weather and fertilizer revive your dormant bluegrass.

Better results from your September application of lawn fertilizer will occur if you increase the application rate by 50 per cent above the recommendation on the bag.

In place of an early spring fertilizing, make a second fall application in early November.

The two applications will maintain even growth until winter freeze-up, and enough fertilizer will carry-over to produce a rich green color and even growth in March and April without excessive mowing.

Evergreen ground covers that do well in shady locations will benefit from extra fertilizer. Either fall or early spring fertilizing will produce extra performance.

Evergreens such as English ivy, pachysandra, lily turf, and creeping euonymus make their best growth in early fall and again in the spring during cool weather and extra moisture.

Annual fertilizing during either of these periods will increase their seasonal spurt of growth to improve their color tone and stimulate their spread into thin spots or nearby open areas.

Organic fertilizers such as milorganite and dried manure are the safest to use because of their non-burn qualities.

Scatter either dried manure or milorganite at 35 pounds per 1,000 square feet on top of the foliage. It isn't necessary to water it in.

If you decide to use lawn fertilizer, use the same rate of application of fertilizer as recommended for grass. Promptly hand water to rinse the fertilizer off the leaves.

Ground covers like sedums

(stone crop), myrtle, goutweed, aduga, plantain lily, hen and chickens, lily of the valley, silver mound artemisia, blue leadwort and baron strawberry make their major growth during the spring and summer.

Fall fertilizing will have the same beneficial effect but the results will show up better next spring.

Venice school handbooks

The Title VII Supportive Service Staff of Venice Community Unit School District 3 will be visiting the homes of the students in grades 4-12 to deliver the Venice High School handbook and to explain the rules and regulations of the grade and high school, according to Mrs. Althea Cross, Director, Title VII Project MICRO.

The team members are Mrs. Georgia Falwell, counselor and career specialist; Miss Myrtle DeLoach, parent counselor; Raymond Mosby, coordinator of school and community relations; and Mrs. Delores Scaturro, Mrs. Carol Williams, Mrs. Teresa Wallace and Mrs. Jerri Gray, teacher aides.

They are working under a grant by the federal government through the Emergency School Aid Act.

The essence of the law known as Title VII was to grant federal aid to school districts eliminating, reducing or preventing minority group isolation and promoting integration.

Goals of the team are to enrich the knowledge of the target students about the world of work and to prevent students from being drop-outs and/or academic failures by helping them to improve their daily attendance.

The team members hope to provide worthwhile and profitable experience through mini-courses, field trips and special assemblies.

The Chouteau Township Community Center will be dedicated on Sunday, Oct. 9. The building was made possible by federal revenue sharing funds and community development funds.

The center will accommodate up to 350 people and will be available for meetings and social events.

The Bicentennial Committee has been receiving contributions from citizens and area businesses to help purchase equipment for the center.

Individuals giving $25 or more will have their names engraved on a permanent plaque to be located in the community center. Many people are contributing in honor of former citizens of Chouteau Township as memorials to them.

Since the plaque is now being prepared, it will be necessary to receive contributions before Sept. 24 to ensure that the names will be on the plaque in time for the dedication. Contributions received after that date will be recorded on the plaque at a later time.

Karen R. Meyers, 17, and Mark D. Meyers, 20, also of 2824 Emzee, were charged with disorderly conduct and Judy L. Wagner, 17, of 2819 Emzee, was charged with fighting.

Also arrested was Gerald A. Schrader, 24, of 2422 Logan St., who was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

Charges against another man were dismissed.

A juvenile also was taken into custody during the disturbance.

Mrs. Wagner and three members of the Meyers family required treatment at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Mrs. Wagner sustained a cut to her left eyebrow.

Miss Rhonda Meyers was examined for neck and chest pains. Mark Meyers sustained injuries to his left shoulder and back, and Henry Meyers said his back hurt after being hit with a board. All were released after treatment and x-rays.

Fewer rural road deaths

Maryville District provisional figures released by State Police Superintendent Lynn E. Baird indicate that 789 persons have lost their lives this year due to traffic accidents on rural Illinois Highways, a decrease of 28 compared to the same period last year. Such fatalities for August totaled 178.

Captain Albert J. Bertagnoli, commander, District Eleven advises that during August there were seven rural fatalities in the nine-county area. Jersey County had one, Macoupin County three, Madison County one and St. Clair County two.

The counties of Bond, Clinton, Greene, Montgomery and Monroe had no rural fatalities.

Total for rural fatalities in District 11 to date is 85, compared to 102 for the same period last year.

During the Labor Day weekend, there were no fatalities in District Eleven.

May issue new bonds to improve cash flow

Action on the possible "advance refunding" of outstanding bonds for housing units and student union buildings and the issuance of new bonds at Southern Illinois University was taken Thursday by the SIU Board of Trustees.

The Board selected A. G. Becker and Co. of Chicago as fiscal agent and Chapman and Culler of Chicago as bond counsel to study the possibilities of securing bids on bonds to be sold to "advance refund" all bonds currently outstanding and to issue new bonds for remodeling work on certain housing units and student union buildings.

The board reserved the right to make the final decision on sale of bonds and the acceptance of any bids received for bonds. It also was stipulated that fees to the fiscal agent and bonding attorneys will be paid only if the bonds are sold.

R. D. Isbell, treasurer and capital affairs officer for the SIU Board staff, explained that inflation and problems created by reductions in tuition retention brought about by the Illinois Board of Higher Education budget recommendations have directly affected the funded debt areas of the university.

Isbell said cash flow problems resulting from the reductions have been partially offset by increases in charges, decreases in operating budgets, reduction of inventories, and increased usage of repair and replacement reserves.

But the beneficial effect of such measures is "close to exhaustion." Thus he suggested consideration be given to the merits of "advance refunding" of the existing bonds. He also said new funds are needed to air-condition certain student housing units at SIU at Carbondale and to remodel the second floor of the University Center at SIU at Edwardsville.

Isbell said preliminary investigation indicates annual cash flow requirements could be reduced as much as $1.6 million and overall principal and interest payments could be reduced by as much as $14 million by the advance refunding procedure and investing in government securities. By June 30, the university had $54.8 million in outstanding bonds.

Lakeside to re-roof center at university

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees approved Thursday the capital project for re-roofing the University Center on the local campus and awarded a contract for purchase and installation of the roof, subject to approval of the project by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Low bidder for the project, Lakeside Roofing Company of Granite City, was awarded the contract in the amount of $134,107. Bids were received and opened by the Capital Development Board in Springfield Aug. 19.

Funding for the project will come from the repair and replacement reserve account of the Student Union Revenue

Fund. University officers said last winter's severe weather resulted in major breakages in the roof of the center, allowing "damaging and dangerous leakage."

The breakages, some as long as 75 feet, have proven irreparable and the leakage continues during any rain or melting snow condition.

University officers have determined that installation of a new roof is imperative prior to winter to provide for the health and safety of persons using the center and to prevent major interior damage to the building. The present roof of the University Center was installed 11 years ago.

JAIL ON WHEELS. Purpose of this display — here for six days last week — is crime prevention. Its tour of various communities is intended as a means of public education in the law enforcement field. The exhibition, currently on a tour of Illinois, was located outside the K-Mart store here. The exhibit was organized by the late J.

Edward Slavin, high sheriff of New Haven County, Conn., and is operated by a non-profit foundation in the late sheriff's memory. The display features a jail cell, an exact duplicate of an electric chair, and such police weapons as pistols, batons, teargas guns and helmets. It also has a collection of police department emblems from all parts of the United States.

Computerized vocational data

Use of a computerized vocational information system begins this fall for Triad High School students, who have questions about colleges, careers and scholarships, and other school systems may join the program. A "not-for-profit" consortium agreement has been signed between the Triad High School District and Belleville Area College.

Triad was the second area high school district to enter into an agreement with BAC concerning use of the Belleville Vocational Information System (BVIS). Belleville Township High School District 201 signed the consortium agreement at its last board meeting.

The modular BVIS system provides junior high and high school students with eight types of computerized vocational information.

Via computer and interest quiz, students are aided in identifying their vocational interest areas. In-school counseling and specific career descriptions follow this test.

A student's knowledge of high school procedures and policies is tested, allowing BVIS to provide students with additional information on specific high school topics.

Upon request, full page job descriptions are provided for any of the 450 civilian career programs in the computer, as well as military career descriptions. Information is also available on financial aids, specific BAC college courses and topics, and 1,600 four-year colleges and universities in the U.S.

Local Manpower Reports, describing the status of occupations in St. Clair and Madison Counties and St. Louis, are available to students.

Constantly expanded and updated, the manpower data indicates the types of jobs, annual turnover, expected salary, size of organizations, etc., providing students with realistic career choice information.

Cost of the forms and updating the files is paid for by the consortium of secondary school users. Each member school pays a fee of $1 per student per school year for use of BVIS consultant services and materials. Other funds are obtained from member contributions and grants.

Made up of one representative of each member high school, the Consortium Advisory Council reviews and comments on the policies and procedures. Triad High School Guidance Director, Elmer Schrage is the representative for Triad. The Belleville high school representative is Tom Daly. Frank Gornick is at the BAC counseling center and human development office.

Sick leave for GC employees $4,077 in July

Sick leave payments totaling $4,077 for July were approved by the Granite City council last week after a discussion in which some aldermen criticized the amount of sick leave claimed for workers at the sewage treatment plant.

A total of 16 workers at the plant filed claims for sick leave during July, for a total of $2,416, or well over one half of the city's total payments for the July month.

Nine of the workers claiming sick leave at the treatment plant were absent only one day, according to a report of claims approved for payment. Two workers were ill for two days, one for three days, one for four days, one for five days, one for eight days and one for ten days. Other sick leave payments during the month included six employees in the street department totaling $595; seven employees in the police department for a total of $484; three workers in the fire department for $405; two employees of the inspection department for $264; one in general government $37; one in the air pollution department $32, and one CETA employee $31.

'Wonderful world of scouting' theme of '77 recruiting drive

The Unihav District (Quad-Cities) of the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, is announcing the start of its "Wonderful World of Scouting" program.

During September, all grade schools, public and parochial, will work with cub packs and scout troops to host a "school night for scouting," inviting boys and parents interested in scouting.

"By nature, young boys are bashful and seldom are aggressive in joining anything without a special invitation," Mrs. Pat Foote, council membership chairman, commented today.

"Yet, reports show us that three out of four boys would like to be part of scouting. So, we are going to remedy this by inviting boys to join."

The "Wonderful World of Scouting" is part of a national theme, with Jim McKay of ABC sports as national chairman.

From September to December, each boy who recruits a new cub scout or boy scout will receive a special uniform patch and the new member will receive a large iron-on decal.

Each pack or troop that recruits its goal will wear a special ribbon and the leader will earn a special coffee mug. The pack and troop that recruits the most members between Sept. 1 and Dec. 31 will have a free dinner at the Granite City McDonald's Restaurant for the entire pack and troop and the members' families for a "scout night" in January.

"This is only the beginning of many activities planned for scouting," Mrs. Foote said. "Things such as special adult training, roundtables, cam-pores, dinners, 'stir the pot,' pinewood derby and many others will be offered for cubs, scouts and their families."

SCOUT EMBLEM in four colors. It will be given to each Boy Scout or Cub Scout who recruits a new member in this fall's drive.

Safety emphasis in science classrooms

High School science teachers in this region are being advised of potential hazards by Mrs. William Barth, regional director, Lewis-Clark Lung Association, Wood River.

Hazardous substances have been found on some school laboratory shelves, she says. Mrs. Barth cited an article in the bulletin of the American Lung Association which reported 90 per cent of colleges and universities in Kentucky kept one or more carcinogenic chemicals in their classroom labs. The Christmas Seal spokesman said there is no reason to believe Kentucky is an exception.

"In addition to known cancer-causing agents, there's a real danger in what we don't know about the long-range effect on the body of exposure to chemically complex modern chemicals," Mrs. Barth said during the weekend.

"Some can cause lung diseases such as bronchitis and pneumonia. Still others are breathed in without apparent damage to the lungs, but with disease resulting in other parts of the body.

"The carcinogenic chemical most frequently found in the Kentucky survey was benzidine, which is used in quantitative analysis and to stain slides.

"Mercury and formaldehyde often also are found in school labs. Mercury vapors can cause damage to the central nervous system, and formaldehyde mixed with an acid solution produces bischoloromethyl ether, a known carcinogen," she asserted.

Mrs. Barth said hazards can be lessened by substitution by science teachers of less harmful substances. This also would provide a valuable lesson for students, she believes.

"Some ordinary science lab equipment also could present health hazards. Dangerous fibers may be inhaled from asbestos hot pads and fire blankets. And malfunctioning or improperly vented hoods may result in harmful chemical exposure.

"Making an inventory of hazardous chemicals, discontinuing use of unnecessary ones, labeling those which are retained as 'hazardous' and developing safe procedures for storage, use and disposal are recommended in the lung association article as immediate safety precautions," Mrs. Barth added.

Reprints of the Bulletin article, which includes a list of dangerous chemical combinations, and a list of alternatives for some hazardous chemicals, are available from: Lewis-Clark Lung Association, P.O. Box 158, Wood River 62095. Mrs. Barth is urging science teachers to share the Bulletin information with colleagues and students, and to watch for two new safety bulletins published by the National Science Teachers Association.

Proper drying is key to garden herb quality

By CHRIS DOLL

Area Garden Advisor
Gardeners may enjoy herbs from the garden over the winter months if they harvested and dried properly. Proper drying is the key to high quality.

Herbs should be gathered at the proper stage of maturity. Collect stems approximately six inches long.

After blossoms have been removed, wash the stems and leaves in cold, running water. Shake off excess water and wrap in absorbent toweling. When the herbs are free of surface water, either bag-dry or tray-dry in a dark well-ventilated room. An attic is ideal, but the air temperature should not exceed 100 degrees F. Higher temperatures may cause loss of plant oils and flavor change.

For bag-drying, place eight to 12 stems in a brown paper bag with the base of the stems exposed and tie the bag loosely. Place in the drying room until the leaves are brittle.

Then shake the bag to free the leaves from the stems. Place the leaves in an air-tight container away from light until needed.

In Tray-drying, leafy stems are placed one-layer deep in a tray and put into the dark, ventilated room. The herbs will need an occasional turning to insure uniform drying.

When the leaves are dry, separate from the stems and place in the airtight container away from light.

The dried leaves can be crushed or pulverized between the hands either prior to use or permanent storage. Keep from light and excess heat for best quality.

A late season invasion of bean leaf beetles can destroy bean plantings. These beetles are small, 1/4-inch-long—green, yellow, tan, or red with four black spots on the back.

They feed on the leaves, making numerous holes, and weaken the plants. When disturbed, the beetles drop to the ground and may not be seen. But careful observation will determine if they are present and if control is required. Carbarthyl (Sevin) is an effective material for control in gardens.

Late summer is the normal time of reproduction of black and purple raspberries and trailing blackberries. Many plants do this normally, but gardeners can make the plant increase larger with little effort.

Since these plants are propagated primarily by tip layering, it is a simple matter to do. Cover the growing tip of a cane with soil or mulch. During wet weather, one inch is deep enough, but for dry weather, the depth of coverage should be two to three inches. Roots will form within 30 days.

Purple raspberries sometimes have to be pulled down to reach the ground. Let the weight of the soil hold them down.

Thornless blackberries will, also root where the cane is covered with moist soil or mulch. So, several rooted plants could be obtained by laying a cane on the ground and covering a six-inch section every 18 inches.

New plants could be transplanted this fall, but it's best to leave the newly-rooted plants in place over winter and plant in early spring. At that time, cut them from the mother plant and plant in the desired location. If fall planting is practiced, be sure to mulch heavily to prevent frost heaving over winter.

Red raspberries and thorny blackberries need no special help for propagation. These plants are easily increased by transplanting some of the sucker plants that emerge next spring.

Dew on TV panel on teaching handicapped

Most of the more than eight million handicapped children in America were barred for years from the nation's classrooms. On Thursday at 8 p.m. and on Saturday at 4 p.m. (captioned), "Including Me," a public television documentary hosted by actress Patricia Neal, will venture into the little understood perspective of these handicapped children with six portraits.

Featured will be deaf, blind, paraplegic, emotional disturbed and mentally retarded children and young adults who have won the right to go to school.

A new law, the Education for All Handicapped Children Act, currently guarantees all handicapped children, including the most severely handicapped, the right to a publically supported education.

A live follow-up will air at 9 p.m. Thursday. It will be repeated at 5 p.m. Saturday. Saturday's follow-up version will be signed for the hearing impaired.

Panelists for the follow-up are: Thomas E. Smith, superintendent, Special School District St. Louis County; Larry R. Dew, director, Special Education Region I, Madison County; and Walter A. Kopp, director of special education, City of St. Louis.

Three parents also will participate on the panel. Viewers may phone in their questions about education for the handicapped to (314) 725-2460. Jerry Kriz, producer of the local program, said the one-hour follow-up, "Including Me: A Community View," will be hosted by Patti Teper.

Workshops are set for Thursday and Friday (Sept. 15-16) at Augustine's Restaurant, Belleville.

"These sessions," said State School Superintendent Joseph M. Cronin, "should give participants a greater understanding of child abuse and neglect issues."

"We encourage educators to put their new knowledge and skills to work by reporting suspected cases and sharing information with staff and community groups."

Program topics will include identifying abuse and neglect; roles of school board members, administrators, teachers and the State Department of Children and Family Services; legal issues and the role of the courts; and community issues and resources.

Representatives from both the Illinois Office of Education and Department of Children and Family Services will answer questions at the meetings regarding policies and procedures.

Seminar on child abuse

The State Board of Education will sponsor 10 two-day workshops to help school personnel recognize child abuse and neglect and to familiarize them with requirements for reporting such cases.

The workshops, which begin today in Carbondale and conclude Nov. 18 in Urbana, are intended for teachers, school board members, school-parent group leaders, school administrators, school social workers, school psychologists, school nurses and student counselors.

Concern

by almost 16 million tons during the same period.

If the recent shortage were a one-time event, there might be less cause for concern.

But the trends described earlier are the result of forces continuing economic realities and of continuing political and economic policies in the nations which produce and consume steel.

These factors, if they continue and if U.S. policies do not change, could well lead to further and possibly even more severe cycles of import penetration of the U.S. market, followed by widespread and economically disruptive shortages.

The events of 1977 support this concern.

Excess capacity prompted foreign producers to drastically reduce the prices of their steel exports in order to maintain production levels by increasing export shipments.

Japan alone increased its 1976 exports by 10 million tons (raw steel equivalent) over 1975. By November, U.S. imports accounted for near-record levels—fully 20 percent of the U.S. market.

The disruptive influence of this surge was even more pronounced in the West Coast and Gulf Coast markets, and for certain product lines such as plate and heavy structural.

The prices of imported steel products from Japan have fallen as much as 40 percent in certain product areas from 1974 highs; published European Economic Community export quotations have fallen by as much as 50 percent.

These events support the conclusion that the U.S. may well be experiencing the beginning of another cycle of import penetration.

They also suggest that it is an appropriate time to review the behavior of foreign steel producers, as well as the U.S. trade policies which influence that behavior.

Specifically, the volatile pricing and marketing practices which might be tolerable on the part of a small nation struggling to maintain its economic equilibrium become unacceptably disruptive when practiced by giant steel industries which equal the U.S. industry in total production and far exceed the U.S. in world steel trade.

To summarize, the trends describe rather serious questions for the domestic steel industry and for the economy as a whole.

These questions relate to vitality and competitive position of an important national industry, and more broadly, to the impact on the U.S. economy of successive inrushes of low-priced steel followed by severe shortages and staggering price increases.

Also at stake are large numbers of jobs related directly or indirectly to domestic steel production and the U.S. balance of trade.

Accordingly, the competitive position and productive capability of the U.S. domestic steel industry are inextricably linked to trends in world steel production and foreign trade.

These are matters of urgent national concern. In response to this concern, the following questions must be considered:

1. How and why have foreign producers been able to penetrate the U.S. market?
2. What is the future outlook for worldwide steel supply and demand?
3. What are the implications of this situation for the U.S. steel industry and for the economy as a whole?

Man charged in Madison theft

Robert Dean Smith, 21, of 1117 Iowa St., was charged with burglary and a 14-year juvenile girl companion was taken into custody after an alleged burglary at Mickey's Starlight Tavern, 1225 Madison Ave., at 4:15 a.m. Saturday.

Police alleged that Smith started to leave the tavern just before closing time and when he went outside was confronted by a group of motorcycle riders. He returned to the tavern where he hid in the kitchen until everyone said.

Smith allegedly took $323 in coins and bills from a bag under the counter and then a hamburger and bowl of chili in the kitchen before leaving the premises, according to reports.

After reaching home, Smith allegedly called the young girl to meet him. Police picked up the pair walking along Madison Avenue.

They were released to the Madison police with a notice to appear on a disorderly conduct charge filed by Granite City.

Enforcement drive on I-270, other highways

Illinois State Police will begin a concentrated traffic enforcement program starting this month.

A six-month special effort will be directed at reducing vehicular accidents, and their resultant injuries and deaths, through increased police patrol and enforcement of all traffic laws at 46 high-accident locations throughout the state.

As a result of a grant request, federal highway safety funds have been authorized to assist the state police in deploying troopers to conduct patrols in those locations considered to have higher than normal accident rates.

Superintendent Lynn E. Baird said the program will begin from September through December 1977, and in May and June of next year.

It will utilize 28 five-member teams committed to a total of 49,000 manhours.

The teams will be made up of off-duty troopers re-hired at their regular rate of pay. The troopers will place emphasis on enforcing moving hazardous violations occurring in the identified areas.

An Illinois Department of Transportation analysis of statewide accidents showed significant increases from 6 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. Saturday and from 6 p.m. Saturday to 6 a.m. Sunday.

The police recognized the problem but found they were understaffed to such a degree they could not adequately cope without help.

"The demands for Illinois State Police services have increased to the point that our existing resources are not sufficient to handle calls for service and at the same time cover high-accident locations," Baird said.

The Maryville district commander, Captain Albert J. Bertagnoli, said the concentrated enforcement effort in the nine-county area served by District 11 will be centered on Ill. 100, U.S. 67, Ill. 267 from Alton to Jerseyville and Alton three miles north of Grafton, and Interstate 270 from the Illinois-Missouri border here to mile post 15, I-55 from Troy to Fairmont City; Ill. 111 and 157 from I-270 to I-55; Ill. 159 from Collinsville to Belleville; and then on Ill. 13 to Ill. 157, and U.S. 50 from Trenton to the Marion County line.

The test can also lead to other opportunities for high school students. For example, students may ask to participate in the College Board's student search service, which provides their names to colleges interested in students.

By taking the PSAT and NMSQT, a student can enter the Merit Scholarship Corporation, administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and can get a good idea of what the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like.

Students may obtain specific test information by contacting their school counselors.

Man stabbed second time

Kevin Krug, 3052 Namekiki Drive, was assaulted by three youths at West 25th Street and Illinois Avenue at 9:45 p.m. Sunday, and sustained knife wounds to his left shoulder and right thigh.

Krug noted it was the second weekend in a row three men have assaulted him and cut him with a knife. Last weekend he was stabbed in the chest and believed the men were the same ones who assaulted him this Sunday.

Krug said he was stopped looking at his motorcycle Sunday when a dark green Ford with Missouri license plates stopped and three men got out and asked him how things were going, he told police.

One they displayed a knife and started cutting him. Krug said he picked up a nearby brick and struck his attacker with it. He then returned to their auto and drove to Route 3 and then went north.

Krug said he drove his motorcycle to West 24th Street and Ohio Avenue where he became weak and fell off. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where his cuts were sutured and he was released.

School, while the boys were involved in ball game.

Ralph Burton, 2741 Dale Ave., reported a $65.23 channel CB motorcycle to West 24th Street and Ohio Avenue where he became weak and fell off. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where his cuts were sutured and he was released.

A riding motorist called 4540 when he was taken from the back of his motorcycle by Jerry Parnley, 3221 Willow Ave., according to a report at 3:42 p.m.

At 5 p.m. Roger Feltmeyer, 2657 Adams St., reported a bike with a silver tank on the bars was taken from his home.

2nd fatal

It was the second such fatality at the steel plant in two days. Albert G. DeGare, 32, of 2923 Buxton Ave., died in a 40-foot fall early Tuesday when he fell from an overhead crane which he was helping to repair in the blooming mill slab yard.

TRAILER IS MOVED

A flatted trailer belonging to Al Wheatley, 1631 Olive St., was removed from the lot at 1557 State St., during the weekend, but a defective brake which would not release caused the trailer to be abandoned on 17th Street between State Street and Grand Avenue. Wheatley discovered at noon Sunday that the trailer had been moved, and he was unable to locate it. The trucker was moved to where the trailer was recovered. Two other trailers were being used in the lot the previous two weekends, he said.

National testing at high schools

Sophomores and juniors at Venice, Madison and Granite City South and North High Schools will take the preliminary scholastic aptitude test and the merit scholarship test (PSAT and NMSQT) on Tuesday, Oct. 18.

The test co-sponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation is a key step in making college plans, according to school counselors.

The combined PSAT and NMSQT tests measure verbal and mathematical aptitude, vital abilities in doing college work.

Eight bids for selling the two retired police cars were opened and both cars were sold to the highest bidder, James M. Williams, 3841 John Glenn Drive, for $615 apiece.

A bid for gasoline for village vehicles also was opened and a contract was awarded to Pontoon Mobil, the only bidder. The new prices are 61.9 cents per gallon for regular gasoline, 64.9 for unleaded and 65.9 for premium.

A resignation by Patrolman John Tullock Jr. was accepted. Tullock has been hired by the Greengrass, Ill., police department. He has three years of police training and experience as a policeman under the work-incentive program (WIN).

Chase auto

Lawrence Hayden, 3900 Gaslight Walk, Apt. 4, Pontoon City, was charged with attempting to elude police officers and resisting arrest after police alleged chasing his auto through East Granite City at 6:25 p.m. Thursday.

An officer reported seeing an auto westbound on East 24th Street at a high rate of speed and chased it on East 24th, north on August Street, east on Edwards Street and into the alley behind the 2500 blocks of Edwards and E. 24th streets.

In the alley, a car stopped and the driver allegedly refused to get into the police car. Force was used to arrest him.

Burglary charge

Lawrence W. "Larry" Anderson, 29, of 1619 Delmar Ave., was charged with burglary after he was arrested at 1:15 a.m. Saturday in Boutique II, 1312 Nineteenth St. When arrested, police said, he had $9.05 in change, 17 one dollar bills, a roll of dimes and a roll of quarters on his person.

A rear window at the store was broken and traces of blood were found on the cash register and on Anderson's hand, police said.

SEMI-TRACTOR STOLEN

A semi-tractor valued at $5,000 was stolen from Ace Diesel Truck Co., 2000 P.O. Brothers Road, Madison, between 6 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Sunday. Thieves forced their way into a garage, drove the semi-tractor to a chain link fence, cut a 12-foot-wide hole in the fence and drove away.

Ronald Glover, 15, of Brighton, Ill., attempted to cross the track at the Alton Speedway while eight cars were racing and he was struck by a car driven by Richard Rich, 35, of Carlinville.

Glover was taken to St. Joseph Hospital, Alton, where he was pronounced dead upon arrival at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. Rich was treated at St. Joseph for bruises and released.

Boy killed, man hurt in speedway accidents

Accidents at two area speedway tracks resulted Saturday in the death of a 15-year-old boy and injuries to a boy, man.

Glenn Mantion, 34, of Arnold, Mo., was crossing the race track at Tri-City Speedway here and struck by a racing car at 10:35 p.m. Saturday.

He was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of abrasions to his back and released.

holster stolen from Ruth Wilson, Hollow Rock, Tenn.

The third indictment alleges he obtained control on or about July 8 over two shotguns and a rifle stolen during a second burglary at Ruth Wilson's home.

Authorities said a Tennessee man is suspected of actual thefts but has not yet been charged since he is in jail on other charges.

Hileman, who has been a fireman since 1960, was serving as assistant fire chief and as a shift commander when he indicted.

Fire Chief Don Parente accepted his resignation Friday morning and convened the firemen's pension board in the City Hall of Granite City.

The pension board consists of Parente, Mayor Paul Schuler, City Clerk Robert W. Stevens, retired fireman Bob Harris and three active firemen.

The board agreed to grant Hileman a full pension which consists of 50 percent of his regular pay, plus two per cent more for each year of service in excess of 20 years.

The pension totals $4 per cent of the $1,512 monthly salary he was receiving as assistant fire chief, or $987.

Chief Parente explained the charges against Hileman do not affect his pension.

He cited statutes noting pensions can only be denied for felony convictions when the felony was job-related.

He said there are no grand jury allegations of misconduct on the job or of a job-related nature, so the pension board has no reason to deny it.

granting the pension, which is to continue indefinitely.

Hileman has paid $12,421 into the firemen's pension plan, the minimum amount to which he is entitled no matter what other factors are considered.

Emerson PTA meets Tuesday

Emerson School Parent-Teacher Association will hold its first meeting of the new school year at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"Child Abuse" will be the topic of the guest speaker, Kenneth Edelman, member-at-large of the Children, Family and Youth Advocacy Council of Belleville.

The Rev. Edelman also is minister of Eden Presbyterian Church in Alton. His remarks will focus on mental, emotional and spiritual abuse via television and movies.

Emerson PTA held its first executive board meeting at the school last week. A budget was outlined for presentation at Tuesday's general session, and plans for various projects were reviewed.

Preparation already are under way for a candy sale, chili supper and Halloween costume contest, among other activities being planned for pupils at Emerson School.

Gabriel Shrine 78 honors officers

Yellow rosebuds and blue candles were used to decorate the dining room at the Granite City Masonic Temple Thursday evening, where 175 members and guests of Gabriel Shrine 78, White Shrine of Jerusalem, honored Mrs. Mary Petrosian and Cleveland Cox.

Mrs. Petrosian and Cox will succeed Gabriel Shrine's current top officers, Mrs. Dorothy Evans, worthy high priestess, and Charles Youngs, watchman of shepherds, in the next club year.

Michael Petrosian presented his wife a corsage from the Shrine, and Mrs. Pauline Cox pinned a boutonniere on her husband's coat.

A special song, composed by Mrs. Guy Stuart for the guests of Mrs. Cox, was sung by Mrs. Wanda Kincaid, with piano accompaniment by the composer.

Representatives from 15 shrines in Missouri and Illinois communities attended the festive evening.

Refreshments were served from a buffet table holding a gold cross surrounded with yellow rosebuds and blue candles as its centerpiece.

Ceramic rosebuds, handmade by Mrs. Louise Meador, were presented as mementoes of the occasion.

Mrs. Mary DeHart, kitchen chairman, and Mrs. Pauline Cox, dining room chairman, were in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Evans announced a chicken and dumpling dinner will take place Sunday, Oct. 9, at the Masonic Temple, with serving from 11 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Lucille Lips, chairman, and members of the ways and means committee are supervising the preparations.

Women's Fellowship meeting

The first meeting of the 1977-78 season of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Central Christian Church, featured reports on new study material and church library books.

President Mrs. Dorothea Rivenburgh opened the meeting held in the Terrace Room of the church. Mrs. Margaret Rutter reviewed the new study material to be used for the general meetings, following the theme of "Affirming God's Reign."

Mrs. Velma Gruen, reading chairman, outlined the new books that will be placed in the church library and urged the members to read them.

Other reports were submitted by Mary Lee Lorton, Lois Wolf, Lumeta Durbin, Lena Seitzer, Mrs. J. Parrish and Doris Edwards.

Mrs. Marie Gordon explained projects of the Inner City, which the local group will be serving along with Disciple and United Church of Christ churches in the Metropolitan area.

The CWF will host the board members of the CWF of Greater St. Louis, on Sept. 27, it was noted.

Many projects were discussed for the coming year with the first to be a spaghetti supper on Oct. 15 featuring a Christmas and bake sale booth. Tickets will be $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 10.

The Rev. Dennis Rutledge requested the members consider ordering Christmas cards from the Woodlawn School, as a means of support to the students who make the cards.

Mrs. Myra Farrish gave the study and Mrs. Madge Hanson closed with worship.

Group 1, including Mrs. Durbin, Peggy Gibbons, Faye Montgomery, Margaret Rutter and Sylvia Tapp, served refreshments.

Members of the Drusilla Andrews Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, visited the office of Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler as he signed a proclamation designating which had gone up as Constitution Week, marking the 100th anniversary of the adoption of the United States Constitution.

Mrs. Janet Wilson, chapter regent, and Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, chairman of the local observance, on behalf of the Granite City chapter commented that "the ideals upon which this document is based are reinforced each day by the success of the functioning of the system to which it gave birth."

"The system cannot function without an enlightened public. Do we know our rights, freedoms, and duties under the supreme law of our land?" They added, "190 years ago this year, a group of strong-willed men gathered in Philadelphia to mend and remold a divided land."

"The Articles of Confederation which had gone into effect in 1781 had failed, and the task of creating a new national government was immense."

"The National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, reminds all that this week is Constitution Week, and urges each to know and use the liberties provided by these far-sighted men who formulated our constitution."

The constitutional convention during the summer of 1787 was the third step in the birth of the new nation. The first step had been the destruction of oppressive British authority through the War for Independence, and the second was the creation of separate state governments to replace those set up by British colonial rule.

"A strong but balanced and limited government was the goal of the convention, and the creation of the same was an immense task."

"Separation of powers, checks and balances, amending process, judicial review, electoral college, impeachment, privileges, immunities — are any of these terms new to you?"

If so, the Daughters of the American Revolution urge you to study our constitution from which all these basic terms are derived during this week, Constitution Week. Only an enlightened public can protect the rights guaranteed by the Constitution. Take some time today, brush up on a few basic terms, and guarantee your freedom."

The theme heard throughout China by recent visitors is that women will be equal in society. This theme will be examined during a one-hour special broadcast over Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville: SWIE-FM Friday, Sept. 16, at 11 a.m. (88.7 on the radio dial).

The special will explore the spectrum of opportunities for women in China, including women at work, women in the political system, support services for women, and educational opportunities. The institutions of marriage and divorce will also be examined.

Roxanne Witke, Chinese scholar and author of "Comrade Chiang Ch'ing," will be a featured guest on the program along with Audrey Rowe-Colom, head of the National Women's Political Caucus, and Julia Chang Bloch, minority staff director for the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

"China is a developing country. In efforts to use all human resources, they need the human power of all their people, including women," Mrs. Bloch says.

"Ninety per cent of China's women work."

"However, women have not moved into technical and managerial positions in factories. Concepts about women's work and capabilities remain."

"Divorce, while permissible, is granted only when the man and woman are politically incompatible, an indication that personal and professional motivation is directed toward the welfare of the state."

Monies supplied by the U.S. Office of Education support four student grant, work-study, and loan programs, totaling $2.8 million. These are allocated on the basis of financial need through the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Several topical programs are offered by the School of Business, the department of health, recreation and physical education of the School of Education, and the Office of Special Programs.

The school includes the National Youth Sports Program, a project bringing East St. Louis children to campus for recreation and sports activities; the Professional Experience Program, a cooperative educational activity involving approximately 60 students and 30 local employers; and the Metro-East Educational Opportunity Centers in Belleville, Alton and East St. Louis.

The School of Nursing has submitted a proposal to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a project titled "baccalaureate nursing for disadvantaged students." The program would offer financial assistance, as well as any needed academic remediation for disadvantaged students entering the nursing program.

The university offers a number of courses for remediation of academic deficiencies, particularly in English and mathematics, according to the president's report.

Other projects assisting with student remediation include: Veterans Upward Bound, Instruction of Reading Improvement (for military personnel at Scott Air Force Base), Nursing Capitation, Supplemental Instructional Program, Special Services for the Disadvantaged, Science Awareness, A National Demonstration Project, and Upward Bound (a high school program operated on campus for 11th and 12th graders).

Other projects directed toward skills development include: Alton State Humanities Training Program, Science Career Facilitation Project, Teacher Corps, Homemaker Training Program, School-Community Relations Resource Project, and a number of programs offered by the School of Business to assist small business firms, area chambers of commerce, and teachers of economics and consumer education.

Projects currently being administered by the Office of Special Programs have total funding of more than $1.7 million. They include operations at the University's East St. Louis Center, which has been under the direction of the assistant vice-president for special programs and minority affairs since November 1976.

"Since that date, a continuing program of curriculum revision and expansion has been in process, faculty responsibilities and assignments have been clarified, and building renovation and repair have been initiated," the report states.

REY. HEIL TO ADDRESS GOSPEL BUSINESSMEN

The September meeting of the Greater Alton Area Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International will be held Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Steelworkers Abel Hall at 2221 E. Broadway, Alton. Speaker will be the Rev. Bob Heil of Herculaneum, Mo.

Division to hear talk on meditation

Carmelita Brubaker, a lecturer on meditation and psychic phenomena, will be the guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce at 6:30 p.m. Friday at Charlie's Restaurant.

A natural psychic, she has had psychic experiences as long as she can remember.

She still is involved in this. In her early twenties, as she became curious about the "whys and wherefores" of the occurrences and their value, she began searching for the answers in books and lectures.

She decided that the only way to understand was to become involved, and did so by joining with other psychics in researching haunted houses. She still is involved in this.

A mediator for eight years, Mrs. Brubaker has been teaching a simple method of meditation for four years. She has worked with both high school and college students, teaching them how to understand themselves through meditation. The program has helped students to eliminate their use of drugs, she believes.

Presently, she is lecturing on meditation and psychic phenomena, teaching meditation and working as a "professional clairvoyant." She is married to a professional artist and has two children.

Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce Office at 878-6400, it was announced.

Varied programs aid disadvantaged

More than 25 programs are being utilized at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville to further the university's mission of assisting persons who are economically disadvantaged or who have academic deficiencies, according to President Kenneth A. Shaw.

In a report Thursday to the SIU Board of Trustees, the president said programs and projects funded to assist the economically disadvantaged and to remedy academic deficiencies total more than $5 million this year.

State, federal and private sources are contributing to the programs, which range from student grant work-study and loan programs, to professional development services for teachers.

"Although the region we serve is afflicted with a growing plethora of unmet necessities and problems not yet identified, I would submit this report as substantial evidence of the commitment of the university to serve our constituents with intelligence, dedication and imagination," Pres. Shaw said.

"A thorough examination of the entire range of institutional life, both within the University itself and in the context of the society in which we live."

The president acknowledged that "much more remains to be done."

Consolidating of elections could put big burden on voters

A news release just received from the State Board of Elections describes the consolidated election bill on Governor Thompson's desk as a boon to voters of Illinois, which has more elections than any other state.

The measure undoubtedly is well-intentioned but might cause rather than reduce confusion by lumping together on the same election day candidates for a wide range of offices.

Not only would the voting task be massive, but organizations geared up for one phase of the balloting might be tempted to extend their efforts to garner unrelated offices and to decide referendum issues.

A taste of consolidation already has been encountered in the shift of additional local-level offices into the spring 1977 election process. A similar situation looms in 1978, when all statewide elective offices will be decided due to the move away from Presidential election years.

There will be relatively few ballot decisions by the public in 1979 and 1980, followed by busy years again in 1981 and 1982.

Michael E. Lavelle, chairman of the State Elections Board, has a point in saying that greater voter participation might be attracted on some election issues now decided by small turnouts. Whether $10 million to $30 million would be saved yearly remains to be seen, and Lavelle admits that the bill sent to the governor contains numerous technical flaws, which he thinks could be remedied by the legislature.

A flaw not just technical is that the administration of some voters would be transferred away from a community to individuals less familiar with voters' names, addresses and appearance.

The announced goal of the legislation is to limit all balloting to five days over a two-year period to achieve "a clearer consensus." The governor may need to take a specially-close look at a bill that offers such advantages and disadvantages and that assures a myriad of "technical" procedural problems.

Meanwhile, Madison County may face additional pressure on its jail capacity during the months to come — or judges will be confronted with a choice of releasing convicted criminals on probation when they realize the supervision service is less than it should be.

The probation problem is a matter which couldn't be met immediately by any measures under consideration by the county. Our jail capacity already is overtaxed nearly 100 per cent.

Meanwhile, a second set of bids submitted for building a scaled-down county jail with increased future capacity is within the reach of the $4 million available under a bond issue already authorized. But estimates are that this jail won't be large enough, even by the time it's built and ready for occupancy.

There is one detail of the situation, however, that offers hope. Architect Henry Gabriel of Granite City assured county authorities at the bid opening that the design provides for easy expansion.

This design offers the county a flexibility in its future planning which is hopeful. While the present bids nearly equal the amounts of funds available, future unforeseen developments in the county or even state and federal governmental law enforcement assistance programs may well provide the needed financing for additional expansion.

'Walk a mile in other people's shoes'

To the Editor:

It never ceases to amaze me how so many people go through life oblivious to the injuries of this world until something happens to them personally.

These are the same people who always are so busy with their own lives that what happens to others is unimportant.

Ask for assistance, and they have something else to do; ask for their time and, if it doesn't conflict, they may spend a little time with you.

But let an injustice hit home and all of a sudden the rules are made for others and unfair.

How long would a normal person allow himself to be persecuted or treated cruelly? A month, a week, a day, but surely not a year or even years?

It seems hard to believe that a caring, loving parent would allow a child to "suffer" and not be aware of it or able to correct it.

(The discussion was prompted by dissatisfaction voiced by some parents regarding the ways and youth baseball and soccer programs are operated.)

We have a great many freedoms in this world and one of them is to work for what we believe in.

The greatest cruelty I know is for a person to use the will of being of a child to get revenge or break the rules when they don't suit their needs.

There are ways in this world to right a wrong, but you must put your time and money where your mouth is before it becomes a personal issue — that is truly the highest form of hypocrisy.

Sour grapes, perhaps. But there are terrific people in this town who work and care and take a great deal of abuse so that the kids in Granite City can grow up to be useful, responsible, caring adults.

The YMCA is one. The Granite City Park District is another one.

The schools do their best when they can handle irate parents who feel their children aren't getting a fair shake.

The laws are almost always on the side of the well-being of the child.

If people think they're getting a raw deal, words won't do a thing.

Become a pink lady, be a big sister or brother, join the YMCA and work for the improvements you want.

Get a team together and be a coach. We always make time for the things we really want to do.

Get out of the bars and home dens, and do the things for your kids that you expect others to do.

Then, after you have walked in their shoes and given more to get, then, and only then, can a person criticize others.

Rules interpretations could cause suits

By RICHARD L. LEBNER

President

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Many of the government regulations under which businesses are subject to differing interpretation. That is, they're hard to understand.

A rule will often appear to mean one thing to Congress, which passed the law delegating the rule-making power; another thing to the regulatory agency which wrote it; something else to the business manager who has to comply with it; and still another thing to the court which eventually hears an appeal on it.

Consequently, the process of clarifying the meaning of new rules, or new interpretations of old rules, provides a lot of trouble for lawyers and suits up a lot of time and money. It is not an ideal system, but it works after a fashion.

As long as the regulators are conscientiously trying to serve "the public interest," rather than indulging a desire to harass business, the costs to society remain within bounds. But suppose a new player enters the game. Suppose any citizen gains the right to sue any business for violation of any one of the thousands of obscure government rules.

And further, suppose the vigilante is empowered to collect damages not only for himself, but for everyone who has allegedly been harmed by the violation of the rule.

If three million consumers can be shown to have suffered "damages" of $1 each, that's $3 million in damages.

Of course, no individual "victim" in this hypothetical case would recover more than a dollar. But, the lawyer acting for all of these affected consumers—called a "class"—could make a bundle.

And the company concerned would have to spend a bundle defending itself, whether it won or lost.

Confronted with such a no-win situation, many companies will choose to settle out of court, even when they aren't guilty of anything. Such suits—called "class actions"—are possible now but there are certain legal formalities that discourage abuse of the system to harass a business or enrich an attorney of the ambulance-chasing variety.

Unfortunately, the Federal Trade Commission wants to eliminate these legal safeguards and make class action suits easier.

The Commission is asking Congress for legislation which would lead to an avalanche of real cases like the hypothetical one just described.

The bill is called the "FTC Improvements Act" in the House—getting an appealing title on your bill is half the battle in Washington.

In more formal terms, this legislation is known as H.R. 3816 in the House and S. 1288 in the Senate. The two bills differ slightly, but have the same general aim.

About now, you're probably wondering why some shady operator who's been ripping off the consumer shouldn't be a legitimate target for an antitrust suit. Well, he should be. But there is already sufficient legal power to go after the shady operator—those who rip off legitimate businesses by filling frivolous suits against them, hoping to blackmail the business into a fat out-of-court settlement.

It is not difficult to find grounds for accusing an honest company of violating one rule or another, because the rules are often so complex that no one understands precisely what obeying them means.

Let me give you a real example of the kind of situation I'm talking about. According to the Conference Board, the FTC has accused Borden, Inc., of having "monopoly power" over the market for reconstructed lemon juice, because Borden's brand, RealLemon, accounted for 75.3 per cent of such juice sold in 1974 (down from 88.7 per cent in 1969).

Borden replies (1) that it does indeed have competition and the competition is gaining, as the figures show; and (2) that fresh lemon juice competes with reconstructed lemon juice, and Borden has only 8.7 per cent of the market for all lemon juice, however derived.

Does a company in Borden's position deserve to have to pay damages to everyone who has ever bought one of its products?

Should some clever lawyer have the right to make a quick fortune by collecting a fee based on a percentage of such damages?

Can all consumers — as a class — afford to pay the increased costs of doing business that such suits would generate?

These are the real issues underlying the FTC's push to make class action suits easier. You be the judge.

Farmers, firms worry about user tax

(American Waterways Operators)

One of the things that seems to have been forgotten in the long Congressional fight over imposing a user tax on the inland waterways is that the tax will ultimately be charged not to the large industry but to the farmers and basic industries which use the waterways.

Congress is working hard to pass a farm relief bill, yet the Senate has passed a disastrous tax on the farmer who uses the waterways to get his product to market.

Congress is working hard to pass an energy bill which will reward conservation, and yet New Mexico senator has pushed through an illogical tax on the most energy-efficient mode which is essential in bringing coal inexpensively to users.

Users of the waterways and large operators have reluctantly come to accept that after 150 years of innumerable benefits to the country from toll-free waterways, a user tax is probably inevitable.

The issue has now moved to how, and how much, can be put on the system without bringing immeasurable harm to those who depend on it.

The scheme the Senate passed last June, which was sponsored by Senator Pete Domenici, is a bad one for farmers or others dependent on inexpensive barge transportation in his home state of New Mexico. It is an inequitable tax that would harm farmers, small businessmen and the consumer alike across the nation.

The only ones who will benefit are the railroads, who would be able to raise their competitive rates as barge rates rise due to the tax.

Some rivers would have to be closed to barge operation, workers would lose jobs, and farmers — already struggling — would see their profits cut again by a significant increase in rates from both barges and railroads under this punitive Domenici system.

The really tragic thing is that much of the money collected would probably not go into the U.S. Treasury as planned, because a whole new bureaucracy would have to be created in the Department of Transportation to administer the tax.

No other major government program has such a public policy goal as we know of are based on ultimate full recovery of those monies such as Domenici advocates.

We haven't heard of any tax being added to mass transportation subsidies or other aid to cities to recover the billions being contributed by the federal government there. And there shouldn't be.

These projects are funded in the public interest, as the already existing authority, the Internal Revenue Service, with little money going to setting up and running collection bureaucracies and with the tax fairly distributed throughout the system.

There is precedent for this level in that the trucking industry pays a four-cent-per-gallon tax as its share of the billions put into the Interstate highway system.

Title III of H.R. 8309 calls for an impact study that would show Congress to look at the effects of its action in a few years — something that has never been done fairly and objectively.

We join the millions of barge owners, farmers and businessmen who depend on the waterways in urging quick passage of this legislation so that the punitive and destructive Domenici proposal can die the anonymous death it deserves.

The six-cent-per-gallon fuel tax it imposes could be easily

COMMENT Thompson tough on slayers

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — The Son of Sam will be at the October session of the Illinois legislature.

David Berkowitz won't be here in person, of course, but he will as a symbol.

For in this wretched summer of '77, Son of Sam has become the grisly epitome of American's deep and growing concern about violent crime.

How to deal with it has become a dominant issue in the legislatures of most major states. In none has it been brought so intensively into focus than in Illinois.

It has in recent weeks transcended in public interest such basic and traditional concerns as taxes and spending, the public aid budget, and the constant need to build and maintain highways and streets.

In some measure this is due to the fact that these other matters have been, pretty much resolved during the spring and summer legislative session.

The fall veto session, as it is known, is likely to be fairly tame as far as any overriding of Republican Gov. James R. Thompson's vetoes of spending measures approved by the Democratic-controlled Legislature is concerned.

The voting public supports Thompson, for the "taxes" and "hold the line on spending" stance, and the Legislature usually reflects the public mood. Few Thompson vetoes are likely to be overridden.

Social issues have tended to dominate the 1977 legislative scene. They include such emotional ones as whether to prohibit the use of the controversial drug Laetrile in the treatment of cancer and to ban use of state funds to pay for abortions for public aid recipients.

Neither the Thompson nor Redmond could prevail. Attempts at compromise failed, so the entire matter of law enforcement legislation was postponed until a special session to be held in conjunction with the October veto session.

The delay, it seems, has strengthened Thompson's position. For the nation's preoccupation with the Son of Sam horror has intensified public demand for get tough legislation to deal with those who commit violent crimes.

Within Illinois itself there has been concern expressed in the Chicago area that a 21-year-old woman, her lover, convicted for the premeditated murder of her parents and her 13-year-old brother, can become eligible for parole after only 11 years and 2 months in prison despite being sentenced to 200- to 300 years.

It is the Class X designation that most irritates Democratic legislators. They suspect that Thompson wants to use the Class X identification as a means to advance his political ambitions.

House Speaker William Thompson, former critic of Class X, has termed it "a fine public relations vehicle." He and others have criticized it as a "bodge podgy" approach that treats relatively minor crimes too seriously.

Nevertheless the Class X provision was tacked onto House Bill 1500, the result of a two-year study by a legislative commission. Basically H-1500 would abolish parole and set fixed prison sentences for persons convicted of major crimes.

Neither the Thompson nor Redmond could prevail. Attempts at compromise failed, so the entire matter of law enforcement legislation was postponed until a special session to be held in conjunction with the October veto session.

The delay, it seems, has strengthened Thompson's position. For the nation's preoccupation with the Son of Sam horror has intensified public demand for get tough legislation to deal with those who commit violent crimes.

Big Jim Thompson looks like a winner on this one.

Bias is charged

By MIKE KIENZLER

SPRINGFIELD — The State Department of Conservation has a "rural bias" that has resulted in failure to provide adequate state parks and other recreational facilities for city dwellers, according to a study by the University of Illinois.

The study is part of a five-year outdoor recreation programs that will be presented to the federal government at the end of 1977.

The update, which is far in only a six-inch pile of more than a dozen unrelated and unrelated papers, is in its public review stage. None of the documents has been approved as official.

When finally put together and approved, the update will be the major guide to Illinois' plans for outdoor recreation until 1982.

The documents — known collectively as the Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan (SCORP) — make recommendations for all facets of state recreation programs, including such topics as camping, hunting, fishing and preservation of natural areas and historic landmarks.

The major issue, however, according to Conservation's director of long-range planning, Bruce Rogers, is the preservation versus popularity question raised mainly by the U of I study, but also by other sections of the update.

"Currently the Department of Conservation does not reflect a genuine concern for the problems and needs of urban residents as they relate to outdoor recreation opportunities," the U of I report says.

"The traditional interest of the Department of Conservation is rural areas, and its recreation programs reflect a resource orientation, but unfortunately little for the majority of the population who need green areas and good recreation programs that are easily accessible."

Conservation has no staff members working specifically with urban recreation problems, the U of I Department of Leisure Studies reported, and much of the Conservation Department's work is too far from the state's major cities.

"We're hopeful we'll be able to come to a general consensus on what role the Department of Conservation — or the state through other departments — ought to play to meet the needs of the urban, particularly the inner city," Rogers responded.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (P.L. 90-448), as amended, and the Flood Disaster Relief Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-234), it has initiated a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in the village of Ponton Beach, Illinois.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by the U.S. Army Engineer District, St. Louis, Corps of Engineers, St. Louis, Missouri, under the supervision of Kenneth D. Corbin, Chief, Floodplain Management Services.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed and to determine flood elevations for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as the basis for determining appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as determining the rates to be used for the "second layer" of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have an opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data concerning flood hazards to the attention of the Federal Insurance Administration for consideration in the course of this study. Such information should be furnished to Mr. Floyd David Moss, the Chief Executive Officer of the community, for forwarding to FIA.

$34 million SIUE budget

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees on Thursday approved a $165,387,700 operating budget for the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses and Springfield, based on state appropriations and anticipated non-appropriated income for the 1977-78 fiscal year which began July 1.

The budget is projected on estimated income of $113,242,600 from state appropriations and $52,145,100 in non-appropriated funds.

Of the $113,242,600 in state appropriations, an increase of $7,070,200 over 1976-77, the Carbondale campus will receive $7,803,400, the local campus

$34,655,200 and the System Office $784,000. The non-appropriated funds represent an increase of nearly $2 million over last year, with the Carbondale campus budgeted for $36.8 million and the Edwardsville campus $12.3 million.

Funds in this category include income from federal and state bonds and contracts; revenue from the Carbondale campus, including student housing and the student center; and other auxiliary enterprises and activities, including textbook services, off-campus instructional programs, parking and traffic, and others.

The increase in state appropriations funds provided salary increases averaging five per cent for all employees and an additional two per cent for lower-paid Civil Service employees, price increases of 11 per cent for utilities and four per cent for all other non-personal services items, $223,700 for operation and maintenance of new buildings, $231,000 for tuition and fee refunds, $750,000 for new and expanded programs, $11,400 for continuance of the weather station at Southern Illinois Airport and $710,300 for funds to meet the minimum payout requirements of the State University Retirement System.

Funds for operation and maintenance of new buildings include $42,700 for the Environmental Research and Training Center at SIUE and funds for new and expanded programs include $150,000 for use in dental medicine, nursing and environmental studies at SIUE.

Of the total budget allocation, $68.8 million will go for instructional activities, $7 million for organized research, $4.1 million for public service, $13.8 million for academic support, $13.7 million for student services, $15.3 million for institutional support, $14.4 million for operation and maintenance of physical plant, $343,000 for scholarships and fellowships, $21.1 million for independent operations, $4.7 million for employer retirement contributions and $660,000 for refunds.

State appropriations are distributed as follows: C+Carbondale; E+Edwardsville; SIUE. C+Carbondale: $84,355,279 (S $489,600; S $57,417,579, E $26,448,100); travel + $976,024 (S $20,000, C $697,724, E $266,300); equipment + $2,348,961 (S $10,000, C - $1,672,611, E $75,300); contractual services + $12,250,725 (S $178,500, C $9,788,825, E $3,283,000); commodities + $4,860,959 (S $25,000, C $3,540,959, E $1,295,000) operation of automotive equipment + $710,870 (S $9,200, C $499,570, E $202,300).

Also, telecommunications + $1,504,028 (S $23,000, C $995,282, E $485,800); employer's retirement contributions + $4,789,100 (S $28,300, C $3,273,300, E $1,487,500); retires + $660,000 (C $427,000, E $233,000); fire protection + $172,276 (C $110,776, E $61,500); awards and grants + $489,900 (C $343,500, E $146,400). Southern Illinois Collegiate Common Market (Carbondale) + $25,000; operation of weather station, SIU Airport + Carbondale + $11,376.

Restricted non-appropriated funds, amounting to $9.3 million at Edwardsville, are derived from external agencies which have specified the use of the funds, such as special instruction programs, research, and public service activities.

Unrestricted non-appropriated funds, totaling an estimated $1.6 million at Carbondale and $438,000 at Edwardsville, are derived from fees and charges, sales and services of various activities, overhead recoveries on grants and contracts, and interest earnings on unrestricted investments. These funds also are used for research, public service, academic support, student services, institutional support, and operation and maintenance of the physical plant.

Revenue bond auxiliary enterprises ($13.9 million at Carbondale and $4.5 million at Edwardsville) produce income used for debt service requirements, salaries, wages and other operating expenses. Other auxiliary enterprises and activities ($14.8 million at Carbondale and $4.6 million at Edwardsville) are self-supporting in whole or in part, from income used for salaries, wages and other operating expenses.
